Agadir Toll May Reach 5,000 Dead or Injured

Some Still Thought to Be Trapped

Mass Graves Hold Bodies of 2,350; Living Told to Go

AGADIR, Morocco (AP) — Rescue team officials said today 2,350 victims of the Agadir earthquake have been buried in mass graves and that whole areas of the city remain to be searched.

As the figure was disclosed, Moroccan army troops sealed off the city. U.S. military teams and hundreds of French sailors deployed through the streets spraying rubble with disinfectant.

All to Be Evacuated

Crown Prince Moulay Hassan ordered "all living souls" to be evacuated from Agadir.

Moroccan government officials said they believed at least 5,000 persons were killed or injured when two massive earthquakes and a tidal wave wrecked the port city on the southern Moroccan coast Monday night.

An International Red Cross representative earlier had said he felt the figures would be 3,000 dead and 5,000 injured. But there was general agreement that no accurate count of the casualties would be possible.

U.S. Cruiser Arrives

Despite ceaseless rescue efforts since the quakes struck, some living were thought to be still trapped beneath the rubble of the shattered buildings.

The U.S. heavy cruiser Newport News arrived today with bulldozers and units of a U.S. Army Engineer battalion. They joined more than 1,600 sailors from a French naval squadron which arrived in the harbor Wednesday night after steaming at full speed from the Canary Islands.

In the fields outside the city shrouded bodies were thrown in mass graves and covered with quicklime.

A Roman Catholic priest said last rites over the European victims as surviving relatives stood alongside.

Planes Continue Missions

Rows of Moslems worked side by side, digging a long trench for 75 bodies awaiting burial. The hot weather and a lack of embalming facilities made haste necessary.

U.S. and French rescue planes roared overhead on mercy missions in and out of the French air base just outside the stricken city. The single runway was crowded with planes bringing in food, medicines and rescue equipment.

Heart Surgery Is Success on Girl

"Everything is perfectly satisfactory," said a relative of Colleen Freer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Freer, of 11 Klingburg Avenue, who successfully underwent an open heart operation at Albany Hospital on Tuesday.

The 7-year-old pupil at St. Joseph's Parochial School, is expected to be removed from an oxygen tent on Friday, a relative said. "Colleen's condition is satisfactory and everything is up to expectations," he told The Freeman.

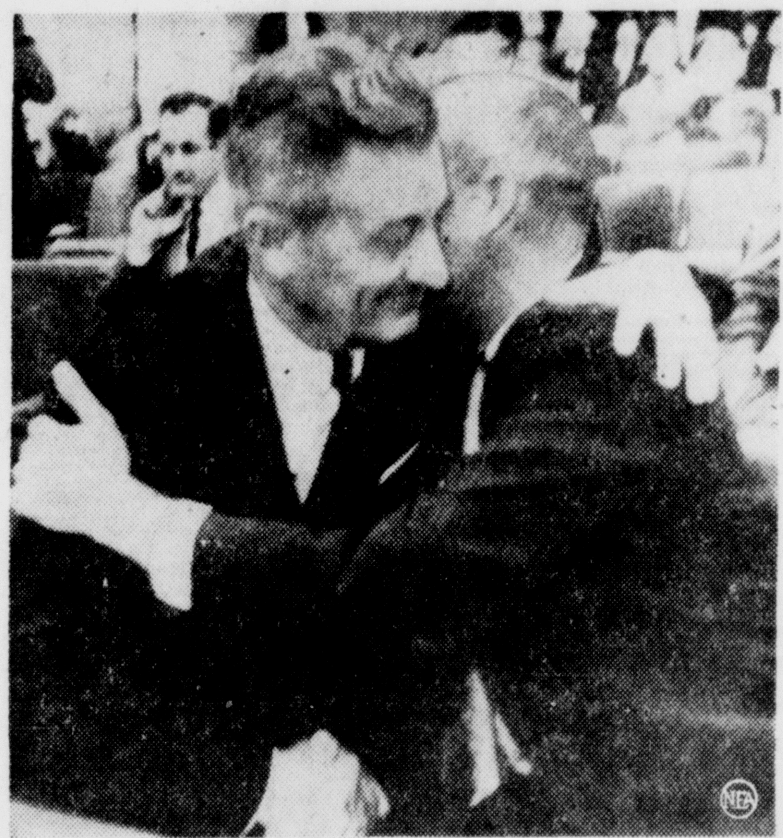

The operation corrected the child's pulmonary valvular stenosis, a narrowing and thickening of the heart valve leading from the artery to the lung. Two sur-

Locker Plant License, Employees Bills Passed

The New York State Assembly on Tuesday passed two bills introduced by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson. Companion bills have been introduced in the Senate by Senator E. Ogden Bush.

One of the bills amends the General Municipal Law in relation to expenses of officers and employees of county or city institutions having administrative boards when attending conventions or conferences of, or schools for, municipal officers and employees.

The second bill is to amend the Agriculture and Markets Law in relation to license fees for refrigerated warehouses and locker plants. This bill is of special interest to local persons who operate cold storage plants and would reduce the license fees for

DEFENSE RESTS—His eyes filling with tears, Dr. Bernard Finch (right) embraces his attorney Grant Clark March 2, a few minutes after Clark ended the defense with a dramatic and emotional appeal to jurors to free him unless they believed him the stupidest of all murderers or a "consummate actor." After his closing argument, which included a re-enactment of the flinging away of the death gun which had spectators ducking, Clark turned to the surgeon and told him he was as "vile as they make them" if he lied about how his wife died. The prosecution began its closing arguments later in the afternoon. (NEA Telephoto)

Po'keepsie Study Shows Negro Denial

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Integrated living is not possible in any one of five communities across New York State because of "a vast amount" of discrimination against Negroes in the sale and rental of private housing, a state Senate committee reports.

"These facts clearly reveal that present anti-discriminatory laws must be revised," Sen. George R. Metcalf (R-Auburn), committee chairman, said Wednesday night.

Poughkeepsie in Survey
The committee said studies made last summer at Freeport, L. I., Greenburgh, Westchester County, Poughkeepsie, Plattsburgh and Rochester showed "a common vein—a denial to the Negro of equal status in the procurement of housing."

Some communities were coping with the minority problem better than others, the committee said. The Senate Committee on Public Health made the study to determine whether sale and rental housing was available for racial minorities "because of skepticism expressed in Upstate New York over the need for fair housing legislation."

Two Storms Converge On State

Wide Areas Hit; U. S. Toll Now 24

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Storms bearing 5-12 inches of snow rode into New York State today, and residents girded for another battle against wind-built drifts.

The Weather Bureau predicted a foot or more of new snow would bury the Catskills and eastern Adirondacks.

Some Schools Closed

Many airplanes were grounded or delayed this morning as a coastal storm struck the New York City area and moved northward, and another storm tore into Western New York from Virginia. The storms then began combining.

Several schools in southwestern New York were closed in view of the forecasts. The number was expected to mount across the state Friday.

The Weather Bureau said the snow might be mixed with sleet tonight in Western New York and east of Lake Ontario, while rain might join the snow in the coastal areas and tides might climb 2-3 feet above normal.

Flurries on Friday

By Friday, the snow accumulation in the eastern half of the state was expected to be generally 6 inches or more, and in the western half, up to five inches, with strong winds and much drifting. The Weather Bureau said flurries (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

Probers Checking Cause of Chief, Truck Collision

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Squads of investigators tried today to find what caused the collision of the Santa Fe Chief No. 2 streamliner, a San Francisco to Chicago passenger train, and a two-trailer truck rig loaded with 7,000 gallons of crude oil.

It happened at 5:10 p.m. Tuesday at the marked Austin Hageman road crossing on quiet San Joaquin Valley flatlands seven miles northwest of Bakersfield.

Fourteen persons died and 72 were injured in the crash and fire. Of the 109 aboard—76 passengers and 33 crewmen—only 24 escaped injury. Of the injured, some seriously and a few critically, 44 remained hospitalized today.

Trucker John Garrett, 48, of Bakersfield apparently tried to swerve his rig and leap clear at the last instant. But an explosion of flames incinerated him in a roadside ditch.

Train Engineer L. A. Snyder, 67, and Fireman Austin Braley, 43, both of Fresno, Calif., were at the controls and died on the instant the train hit the truck at a 45-degree angle. But apparently they, too, had seen what was coming. Kern County Coroner Stanley Newman said they were far back in the engine compartment.

"It is clear they were running away from the collision," he said.

ONCE A HOTEL—Rows of shattered windows rest amid the rubble of what once was the Hotel Saada in Agadir, Morocco, March 2, after earthquakes and a tidal wave devastated the resort port city late Feb. 29. There were still no official figures for the total of dead and injured although estimates ranged as high as 5,000. Nations of four continents, including the U. S., responded in a vast mission of mercy flying in doctors, nurses, supplies and medicine to the stricken city. (NEA Radio-Telephoto)

Roads Slippery, Speed Reduced

Slippery highways developing from the snowstorm slowed traffic before noon today and County Department of Highways officials ordered sanding crews out on main roads in the southern part of Ulster County.

The speed limit off the State Thruway was reduced from 60 miles an hour to 35 from Kingston south to New York City and a spokesman at the Kingston interchange, Route 28 said the reduction of speed probably would extend at least north to Saugerties.

State Police reported speed had been reduced from 60 miles an hour to 35 on the Taconic Parkway south from Route 28 in Dutchess County to New York City. Slippery conditions were reported south of this city. Forecast is five to 10 inches of snow for local areas.

Papers Are Sent To Wilson to Act On Stadium Site

Another step toward transfer of a Dietz Stadium site by the city to the education board for the building of a junior high school was completed with the forwarding Wednesday of required papers to Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, for home rule legislation, it was learned today.

The council is also expected to receive, at its recessed meeting, a committee report on the bid of local firemen for shortening of their 56-hour work week. A report had been prepared for the March 1 meeting, but was not brought out of committee because of a request by Republican aldermen for more time to study it.

Ike Winds Up Tour, Heads for PR Rest

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—President Eisenhower flew north today after a triumphphant four-nation South American tour marked by huge, enthusiastic crowds and a smattering of tiny anti-U.S. demonstrations.

Chats With Frondizi
The President flew to Buenos Aires in his trusty Columbine III after a 21-hour stay in Montevideo, capital of neighboring Uruguay.

He held a brief last meeting at the Buenos Aires airport with Argentine President Arturo Frondizi, then took off in his Boeing 707 jet for an all-day flight to Puerto Rico and three days of rest before going on to Washington.

U.S. Air Force officials said the flight plan at the time of departure called for a refueling stop in Paramaribo, Surinam, after a flight of nearly six hours. That schedule would put the President in Puerto Rico late this afternoon (4:30 p. m. EST).

Eisenhower was smiling and in obvious good humor as he said goodbye to President Frondizi. They had a final 15-minute talk aboard the sleek jet just before it took off.

Two Pledge Adherence
Just before leaving Uruguay, Eisenhower and President Benito Cardona issued a joint "Declaration of Montevideo" repudiating all types of antidemocratic actions. They pledged their adherence to the principle of nonintervention in the affairs of other American countries and agreed to use their efforts to increase economic, social and cultural cooperation.

Then the two presidents gave each other a hearty abrazo—the South American bearing embrace—and Eisenhower boarded his plane, waving and grinning.

Eisenhower was up early. He gave a short talk to U. S. Embassy personnel and their families at the Embassy residence before boarding his helicopter for the trip to the Montevideo airport.

Frondizi met Eisenhower at the Buenos Aires airport. About 500 persons—including government officials, troops and some bystanders waiting to board commercial planes—looked on.

Walking up a long red carpet to his silver and orange jet, Eisenhower paused to say good-bye to Ambassador and Mrs. Willard L. Beaulac.

Eisenhower and Frondizi talked for 15 minutes aboard the jet before its departure.

Greenberg Is Stormbound, Court Is Off

A session of the extraordinary trial and special term of Supreme Court which has been scheduled for noon today before Supreme Court Justice Henry Clay Greenberg, was postponed today when Judge Greenberg became stormbound in New York City. Shortly before noon, when the court session was scheduled to convene, Judge Greenberg notified counsel that bad highway conditions would prevent him from reaching Kingston.

No Date Set
Chief Assistant Leonard E. Reisman of Special Prosecutor Tompkins's staff, said the matters had been adjourned until next week. No date had been fixed.

Sentence of Anthony Macera, Catskill, under a plea of guilty to a two count conspiracy indictment, had been set down of noon. Macera, who was a salesman for the Westchester Asphalt Distributing Co., at its Athens plant, was one of two defendants named in an indictment returned on Wednesday, February 24. N.Y. Solons Are Cool to Phone Tax

Record Spending Gets Green Light In Both Houses

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller hails passage of his $2,035,000,000 budget as "a welcome vote of confidence" but his campaign to win a telephone-use tax for schools has suffered a major setback.

The Assembly gave final passage Wednesday to the Republican governor's record spending plan, which is 32 million dollars above spending for the current fiscal year.

Pay-as-You-Go Plan

The budget provides for pay-as-you-go financing in the fiscal year that begins April 1.

In Washington Wednesday night, the governor's plea that local school districts take over a 10 per cent telephone-use tax from the federal government received a cool reception from the state's congressional delegation.

Rockefeller said after a dinner meeting with the congressmen that there were wide differences of opinion on the plan. The federal tax raises 70 million dollars in New York State. Rockefeller wants the congressmen to vote against extending it beyond the scheduled expiration date of June 30.

Plan School Boost

The proposed local telephone tax was to provide the bulk of Rockefeller's program for increasing aid to schools. He also proposed an increase of 25 million in state aid during the 1960-61 school year.

Legislative leaders plan increases in education aid, however, regardless of whether the telephone tax becomes available to school districts.

The leaders also are drafting a program of increased aid to New York City.

The Senate passed the governor's budget Tuesday.

The governor made no mention in his statement on the budget passage on Republican plans for increases in spending.

Sees Endorsement

Rockefeller said the legislative approval was "a clear endorsement of the soundness of the pay-as-you-go policy that we undertook together a year ago to restore the fiscal integrity of New York State."

In other legislative developments:

The legislative leaders, Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Joseph E. Carroll, introduced measures to eliminate a requirement that parents include the earnings of their minor, non-tax paying children when declaring taxable income.

Income Not to Be Filed

The Internal Revenue Service, meanwhile, issued a statement emphasizing that parents should not report on their federal income tax the earnings of their children.

The state law is that income earned by a dependent minor is legally part of the parent's income and is taxable as such unless the (Continued on Page 8, Col. 8)

Well-Managed Colonial Gardens Changes Visitor's Housing Views

Kingston's Colonial Gardens, considered outstanding among state-sponsored housing projects since it opened in 1953, recently gained new praise, it was revealed through a letter received here this week.

It came to Mayor Edwin F. Radel from John E. Bonkowski, a housing official in the Village of Sloatsburg, Rockland County, and commended Alexander Yosman, Colonial Gardens manager, and executive director of the Kingston Housing Authority, as well as the project itself.

It was learned today that one of a group of five from Rockland County, who recently visited here, was opposed to a housing project, but after seeing Colonial Gardens, issued a press release stating that he was in favor of one.

Better Run Than Any
After thanking Mayor Radel for arranging for inspection of the project, the letter said:

"The City of Kingston has a project of which it may be justly proud and boastful. I personally have never seen a housing project as well run as yours. Other projects I have visited, which were from two to 10 years of age, have deteriorated to such an extent that in a short time they will again become a blight on their community.

"It is a credit to your city for appointing a manager, of Mr. A. Yosman's qualifications and dedication.

"I will try to keep you informed on the progress our three communities (Suffern, Sloatsburg and Town of Ramapo) make in setting up our housing authority. Also, if I can be of any assistance to you in your urban renewal project, do not hesitate to call upon me for whatever help I can give."

Many Praise Project

George E. Yerry Jr., local housing authority chairman, said, "We have had many visitors, who paid high tribute to Colonial Gardens, and we are appreciative of this one." Yerry, a member of the authority since it began in 1948, served first as its secretary and has been its chairman for six years.

The first housing authority was named by Mayor Oscar V. (Continued on Page 8, Col. 4)

TOMBS?—Rescue workers use cranes and a bulldozer through the night to delicately pry apart the crumpled cars of the crack Santa Fe Chief passenger train searching for additional persons feared entombed in the cars after a flaming collision with a fuel tank truck in Bakersfield, Calif., March 1. Fourteen dead had been identified and authorities feared four other persons were still in the wrecked cars. Forty-four of the 83 persons aboard the train were injured seriously enough to be hospitalized. The speeding Chicago-bound streamliner smashed broadside into the tanker, which spewed its 8,000-gallon load of fuel oil through the air and over the train. (NEA Telephoto)

Says Railroads Try to Discourage Passenger Rides

WASHINGTON (AP)—American railroads are deliberately trying to discourage passengers in hopes of abandoning passenger train service, a labor leader charges. C. E. Leighty, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives Assn., said Wednesday railroad management is campaigning to convince the nation that railroads are tottering on the brink of bankruptcy and that passengers are deserting the trains.

Leighty, of St. Louis, said the truth is that railroads are making more money now than they did during their so-called golden years of the 1920s. They carried more passengers per train in 1957 than in 1929, he said.

Rep. John Jarman (D-Okla.), a member of a House commerce subcommittee investigating declining commuter train service, immediately challenged Leighty. "It is inconceivable," Jarman said, "that management with all the facilities at its disposal and the public interest with which it is charged would have the attitudes and objectives you indicate."

Jarman said he would take up Leighty's charges with railroad officials scheduled to testify before the committee.

Leighty endorsed one of four bills before the subcommittee. It would prevent hasty abandonment of rail and ferry commuter services and would permit the Interstate Commerce Commission to regulate train schedules and set up standards of comfort, sanitation and safety.

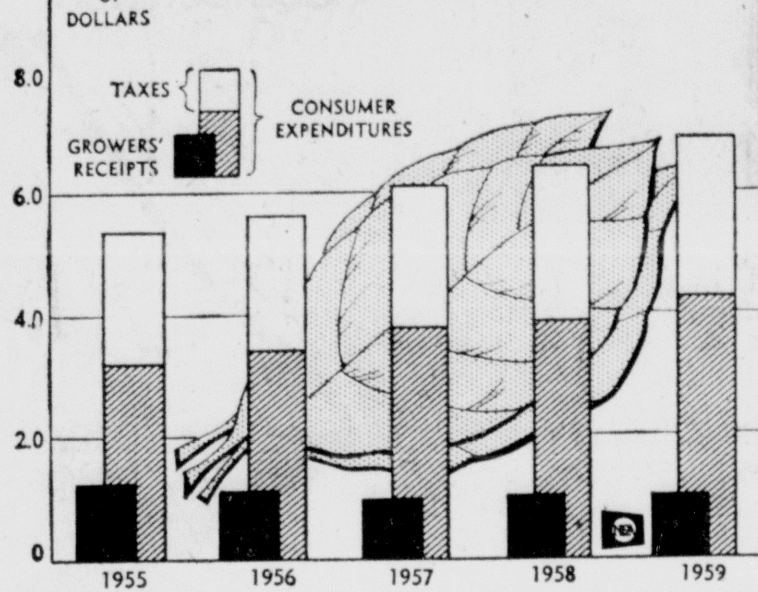

Under the Transportation Act of 1958, a railroad can drop a train upon 30 days notice to the Interstate Commerce Commission, unless the commission intervenes. Leighty, whose organization represents 23 railroad unions, said 105 trains have been discontinued under this act.

This includes 22 on the West Shore Division of the New York Central Railroad between Weehawken, N. J., and Haverstraw, N. Y., he said.

THE TOBACCO TALLY

MONEY TO BURN—American smokers spent a record 6.8 billion dollars for tobacco in 1959, according to preliminary estimates of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (see Newschart). This was 7 per cent above 1958. Federal and state taxes amounted to 2.7 billion dollars—nearly 40 per cent of the cost to consumers. Growers' receipts were slightly above 1958, but below those of every year from 1951 through 1956.

More Hearings Ordered on Air Route to Detroit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board has ordered further hearings on renewing Mohawk Airlines current route between Buffalo-Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Detroit by way of Erie, Pa.

The renewal is a segment of a hearing on local air service between Erie and Detroit. The hearing, ordered Wednesday, also will consider renewal of Allegheny Airlines route between Erie and Detroit and Lake Central Airlines route between Youngstown, Ohio, and Buffalo by way of Erie.

In 1957, the CAB ordered an investigation of whether the certificates of Allegheny and Mohawk should be amended. Lake Central was allowed to intervene.

Examiner William F. Cusick then recommended that the authority of both Mohawk and Allegheny be made permanent.

Lake Central protested it had not been given notice that the issue of permanent certification would be considered during the 1957 hearing.

The CAB, in reopening the hearing, said that although both Allegheny and Mohawk appeared to warrant renewal, the original order of investigation failed to include the renewal issue in its scope.

The board said Lake Central should have an opportunity to present its case for renewal.

Cosmos in Local Talk Says Boys Club Is Unique

Nicholas Cosmos, executive director of the Holyoke, Mass., Boys' Club and formerly a director of the Kingston Boys Club, told officers, directors and guests of the local club that the Boys Club is unique in many respects.

He was guest speaker Wednesday at the annual meeting, held at the Hotel Kirkland with more than 35 persons in attendance.

"The Boys Club is unique because it serves only boys and during their leisure time," Cosmos said. He also said the club is unique because of its open door policy of friendliness, warmth and companionship inside its doors and because there is no difference in the race, color or creed of the members. "Boys Clubs of America practice equality for all and believe in it," he emphasized.

Warren P. Smith, president of the Kingston Boys Club, remarked that the organization has been in a confined position for many years. He added that it is hopeful of making a change within the next few years so members won't be too confined. "We hope to have larger and up to date facilities," he added.

Herbert L. Shultz, vice-president, introduced the speakers. He also thanked the Community Chest for help given the Boys Club. He noted that 1959 was the first year in history that no deficit was shown. Shultz also thanked sustaining members for their past contributions.

Executive Director John Holochuck, in reviewing activities of the local club, said there are three points which are emphasized. He described them as being sensitive to the needs of the community, a subordination of self and self devotion to service.

Major Foster J. Meltroff of the Salvation Army, opened and closed the dinner-meeting with the invocation.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 3, 1960

OMNIBUS BANK BILL

Commenting on the Omnibus Banking Bill now before the Legislature, The White Plains Reporter Dispatch says editorially that if the political leaders, bankers and ordinary citizens of upstate counties are sitting back in idle contemplation of a proposed new state banking law which would enable giant New York banks to take over Westchester and Nassau Counties, they may be in for some agonizing surprises.

Not only would the so-called "omnibus bill" now before the Legislature permit New York City commercial banks to dot Westchester and Nassau with storefront money-grabbing branches, it would, because of a "sleeper" condition inherent in it, give New York City's national banks the legal right to branch into or merge with existing banks in Rockland, Dutchess, Putnam, Orange, Ulster, Sullivan and Suffolk Counties.

The warning was given at a legislative hearing in Albany yesterday by Sidney Friedman, a prominent New York City attorney acting as counsel for the Nassau-Suffolk Financial Council, which includes all or most of the Long Island banks in its membership.

The Omnibus Bill, which up to this time seems to be the favored proposal of Senator John H. Cooke, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Bank Law, provides, Mr. Friedman pointed out, that if a New York City bank were to merge with one in Nassau or Westchester, existing branches elsewhere in the 1st and 3rd Banking Districts could be retained by the New York City bank for a period of five years.

And, under that provision, nationally chartered banks in New York City could under federal law open branches in seven additional counties—or, in other words New York City national banks could take over the whole southeasterly portion of the state.

"This is because," Mr. Friedman explained, "by express provision of the National Bank Act, national banks may establish and operate branches wherever state banks may do so. It is not necessary that state banks actually have branches in these counties to set the Federal law in motion. The mere fact that branches are permitted is enough."

The man-in-the-street may wonder, of course, what difference it would make if big New York City banks were to dominate financial operations in suburban or upstate counties. Wouldn't they provide services? They would, just as our own banks do. Wouldn't they make loans? They would, just as our own banks do. But they would do more than that—they would bring with them not only financial domination but great potential political influence if they chose to exercise it, as inevitably they would if their own interests would be served thereby.

Finally, New York City bank branches would erode away any distinctive character a suburban county might have, making such a county a mere economic satrapy of the great and messy metropolis which is their home and heart.

So resistance to this omnibus law is not required merely to "protect" existing suburban banks but, rather, to safeguard the character and further the sound development of suburban or upstate counties along lines which the people of those counties choose for themselves.

Wall Street is not out to serve us, it is out to get us to serve it profitably.

A Boston University high jumper soared 7 feet 2 inches for a new record. That's higher than Ike went when Symington called the U.S. a second-class power.

That "second-rate power" charge made by Senator Symington has stirred up a first-class row.

That submarine off the Argentina coast may have been a flying saucer or a whale. Or a fish story.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
VICE PRESIDENTS

The Republican Party could lose the Presidential election from lack of interest. With only one candidate, Vice President Richard Nixon, in the offing, the convention could not be too exciting. The only contest can be over the Vice Presidency and no one appears to be very anxious about that. Richard Nixon is very young and by the law of averages, he is likely to live through two terms. So there is small prospect for a Vice President except to preside over the Senate and occasionally capture a newspaper notice by some such quip as that what the United States needs is a nickel cigar—a very famous aphorism that threw them in the aisles in yesterday.

The Democrats are full of candidates and as somebody said, they mostly look like Vice Presidents.

At present, the Democrat in the lead is, of course, Senator John Kennedy of Massachusetts. He runs hard, not giving way to anybody or anything. There is a delightful brashness about Kennedy, as there is about the entire Kennedy clan. The only issue that really affects his chances seriously is that he is by religion a Roman Catholic.

It is astonishing what antagonism to Roman Catholicism exists in this country. The enormous mail I have received on this subject cannot be disregarded, much of it sounding like what a Nazi might have written about a Jew in Hitler's time. Those who write insist that Catholics are secondary citizens by choice, that is, that by being members of their own church, they have become so subservient to the Pope that they cannot be trusted to be loyal to the United States. But what about the Catholics who gave their lives for this country in every war since the Revolutionary War?

The anti-Catholic argument is as unfortunate as the segregation of Jews in certain Summer resorts, as though their presence weakened the rays of the sun. It is a little late for the United States to reject talent because it is lodged in the wrong kind of body.

The next man, after Kennedy, among the Democrats is Senator Lyndon Johnson, the Majority Leader in the Senate. Johnson is a man of extraordinary capacity for leadership. He is instinctively political with a profound sense of responsibility for the national good. Johnson would make a very sound candidate.

Senator Stuart Symington is undoubtedly anticipating the possibility of a deadlock between Kennedy and Johnson. His entire campaign is designed to aim at a deadlock. In a national convention, a deadlock candidate often makes deals for a vote on the third or fourth ballot.

The other candidates are running for Vice President. It is customary for each candidate to say that he will under no circumstances take the second place. But after the balloting is over and the Presidential candidate is nominated, the others are willing to sacrifice themselves for the country by accepting the second place.

The campaign itself is of advantage. For instance, Senator Hubert Humphrey is an intelligent, educated Senator. However, he has not had a national reputation. His present campaign to be the Democratic candidate for President is giving him a national platform and a national reputation. Nominated for President or Vice President or not at all, Humphrey will be a more important personality than heretofore. No matter which Democrat is nominated, Humphrey will play a role during the campaign.

The contest among these candidates and others who would be Vice President in the Democratic Party is stimulating a keener interest in the doings of that party than in anything that is happening in the Republican Party. President Eisenhower cannot run for President again but the course of events is arranging itself so that he takes the center of the stage all the time and he keeps that center. Vice President Nixon cannot do anything about that, but his problem, as the candidate of his party, is to project himself before the public as a figure suitable to lead the country. A captive of his office, he cannot compete with his President. While Kennedy chases about the country and Johnson leads in the Senate, Nixon has to maintain a dignified remoteness from immediate seizure of the front pages.

But that is politics in a free country where a Presidential election gives the people an opportunity to pick and choose, to praise and denounce, to select the right or the wrong man. (Copyright, 1960, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Hopes for the Psychotic
Are Recognition, Treatment

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

We've been concerned with mental quirks that did not involve total personality. That is to say I might have an unreasonable fear of cats and you of fire. But, in all other respects, each of us does his job, meets his responsibilities, gets along acceptably with daily contacts, and has a decent respect for the quirks of "odd-balls" and the neurotic reactions of other neurotics.

In contrast, to these so-called partial reactions, the most serious of the mental disturbances, the psychosis, is a total reaction.

Perhaps you will have a better understanding of what is meant by a total reaction if you watch a child at play. The little girl, alone in a room with her dolls, becomes a mother caring for her baby. She talks to it. It answers. She expresses her pleasure when the response is satisfactory. She scolds when the doll-baby is disobedient.

So too, the little boy, dressed in cowboy costume, doing battle with marauding Indians in an empty yard. He fires and falls to the ground. Advances for a second round. Throws himself behind a hedge to avoid enemy shells. And finally goes on to victory for the hundredth time as the last of the Redskins "bites the dust."

The dedicated actor, when he is "in a role," also makes a total surrender of his personality. For the first week or so of his memorable Hamlet engagement, John Barrymore told me he WAS the Prince of Denmark from curtain rise to curtain fall. And Henry Fonda felt that he was able to BE Mr. Roberts throughout the entire run of that unforgettable play.

Now when the little girl or the little boy are called for dinner and when the dedicated actor leaves the theater, each has the power to abandon the assumed role and re-enter the world of reality. Not so the psychotic.

Depending on the form taken by the psychosis, he remains at all times Napoleon, Hitler or Queen of the May.

He may inhabit a world wherein he is subjected to persecutions of all types (paranoia). He may lose all incentive to carry on (depressive psychosis). He may believe there are no limits to what he can achieve (mania psychosis). Or he may alternate between Paradise Lost and Paradise Regained (cyclical insanity).

Sometimes the psychosis is due to known cause, like an infectious disease, alcoholism, drug addiction, poisoning, hardening of the arteries or a brain tumor. Then, if the cause can be attacked, there is hope for recovery.

All too often, however, the cause of the psychotic reaction is unknown as in schizophrenia (split personality); a disturbance that accounts for 40,000 admissions to our mental hospitals each year.

Now if what you've read suggests that maybe you're a bit psychotic, you may rest assured that you're not or you wouldn't fear or entertain that suspicion.

One should not through fear or pride expose himself and the community to the unforeseen consequences of a psychotic behavior reaction. Nor should vanity or cowardice deprive the loved one of the advantages of intensive treatment begun early in the disease when it can do the most good.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A new "Let's All Register—Let's All Vote" campaign that might have some effect on the 1960 elections has been unveiled here by the American Legion.

There are a couple of commercial plugs in it. Drugstore politics are substituted for cracker-barrel politics. But Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler and Republican National Chairman Thruston B. Morton both endorse it, so maybe it's worth a try.

The idea behind this campaign got its start last year when the U. S. government sent 42-year-old John Bowles, president of Rexall Drug Co., to run a typical American drugstore at the Posen, Poland, trade fair.

After it was over, Bowles went to see the American exhibition in Moscow. Standing in front of the Kremlin, his Soviet guide began to upbraid him because more Americans didn't vote.

HE WAS a smart Russian and he had all his figures. Only 61 per cent of all American citizens eligible to vote did so in the 1956 presidential election. But in the 1958 Soviet election, 99.97 per cent of 133 million registered Russians had voted.

The guide said he wasn't just talking about U. S. Negroes not voting. He was talking about everybody. To the Russian, this showed the decadence of American democracy and the superiority of communism. Bowles had no good answer—and it made him mad.

When he came back to the U. S., Bowles went about his business. Inspecting one of his stores in Park Ridge, Ill., one day, he saw an obviously foreign-born couple come in.

They wanted information on where to go to register, as voters. They had just received their citizenship papers. The judge administering the oath had told them that as good citizens, they should register and vote.

The clerk brushed them off with advice that all the information would be published in the newspapers when the time came, so go on home and forget it.

FROM THIS OVERHEARD conversation, dynamo Bowles got his idea on how the Russian guide might be answered.

George Scharringhausen, manager of the Park Ridge store, put up a registration and voting information bulletin board. It told in simple English who could register, where and how to register and where to vote.

At the drug chain's Denver, Atlanta and Charlotte district sales conventions, it was suggested that other stores follow the Park Ridge example. The idea caught on.

For many years there have been get-out-the-vote campaigns, but somehow they have never succeeded. Advertising Council has promoted this hard. Since 1947 American Heritage Foundation has enlisted civic organizations for this work. The American Legion plugged it.

BOWLES, A LEGION member—he was lieutenant commander of a gun crew in World War II—took his idea to the Foundation and Legion last Dec. 1.

The idea was that his organization, with 10,000 outlets all over the country, could put up bulletin boards telling their millions of customers who should register, when and where to register, where to vote. Last month Heritage Foundation, the Legion and others endorsed it. It didn't take much selling to get Coca Cola to furnish bulletin boards and window displays. But this guy Bowles can sell almost anything. And does.

He was born in Monroe, N. C., and he still talks real southern. He was 32 when he got out of the Navy. The first job he could get was stockroom man in a Los Angeles Rexall store. Now, 10 years later, he's president.

There will be problems, too, particularly in the South. But if the 3,500 Rexall stores below the Mason-Dixon line display this information publicly, every day, it will be the first time that has ever happened.

Critics will call this hucksterism of the worst sort, commercializing politics. But as GOP chairman Morton says, any party that can get just four million more votes out of those 10 billion impressions will win.

Criticizing Supreme Court Upheld as a U.S. Privilege

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Commenting on a decision this week by our highest court, the following statement has been made in criticism:

"A performance of this kind deprives the Supreme Court of the intellectual respect it needs now more than it ever did, in these demanding times."

Who says this? Does it come from one of the critics who has been lamenting the decisions of the Supreme Court on states' rights, communism, the Fifth Amendment and so on? Is it a pronouncement by a member of the American Bar Association or of the Conference of State Supreme Court Justices? Or is it an exclamation by some of the many lawyers and judges who have come to the conclusion that the Supreme Court has usurped legislative functions?

Not at all. The criticism quoted above was made this week in an editorial in "The New York Times" which for a long time has been one of the foremost defenders of Supreme Court rulings.

It so happens that the court is right in this week's decision and doesn't deserve the blame being heaped on it by those who don't like the ruling. But the importance of the criticism is that it clears the air. It asserts, in effect, that adverse comment on the Supreme Court is not sinful. For, despite the impression that so many mistaken defenders of the court's legislative rulings have sought to convey in the past, criticism of a court decision is not an "undermining of the institution" the phrase so often applied to the court's critics in recent years even by high officials here.

The Right to Criticize

Nobody who is at all familiar with our judicial system really wants to abolish the Supreme Court of the United States as the institution which must decide cases in the jurisdiction specifically prescribed by the laws of Congress and by the provisions of the Constitution. But every critic feels he has a right to point out faulty reasoning of the justices.

The case which aroused the criticism of "The New York Times" concerned two employees of the State of California who were dismissed under an ordinance which says they must be fired if they decline to testify before a Congressional committee concerning subversion. They had invoked the Fifth Amendment and thereby refused to tell about alleged subversive affiliations.

In another instance involving New York State laws, known as the Slochower case, the Supreme Court of the United States had ruled in 1956 that state employees could not be dismissed under a law that said that such employees who invoked the Fifth Amendment would lose their jobs. "The Times" said in its editorial:

"Instead of specifying that employees who refuse to testify at hearings because of possible self-incrimination must be dismissed, the California law requires dismissal of any persons who decline to testify for any reason."

"This distinction without a difference was seized upon by the majority to distinguish Monday's decision from the Slochower case. But for all practical purposes, the latter must now be regarded as a dead letter. If a state or city is wise enough to avoid putting the term 'self-incriminating' explicitly in the law, it is free to punish employees who exercise a privilege granted them as citizens by the United States Constitution. The court's retreat is regrettable..."

Myers Case Cited

But shouldn't every public employer be permitted to fire any employee who is incompatible with other employees or inefficient without giving any reason? The Supreme Court of the United States in the famous Myers case in 1926, for instance, upheld the right of the President to fire a postmaster or any other government employee at a time when Congress had not specified or limited the grounds for removal.

The question in the current case is whether a state may dismiss an employee who refuses to testify at Congressional hearings. Plainly the employees had a right to test the constitutionality of the California law. They were in a sense "resisting" it, as they had the privilege of doing, though Southerners who test court orders are usually described as "defying the law" and as engaging in "massive resistance."

There can be no doubt that the Supreme Court in this case changed its mind because it felt the facts were different—the two laws were not worded the same way. But what shall be said of a Supreme Court that merely reverses itself when the facts and constitutional principles are identical and explains it all away by a statement declaring that whatever was the "psychology" prevalent at the time of the previous decision "must now be reversed?" This was the ground for the 1954 desegregation decision.

Perhaps those who have been unwilling to see the risks involved in reversals by the court when the same principle has already been built into established law now will adopt a more charitable attitude toward the critics who have taken the high court to task for its irregularities.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"What are you giving up for Lent this year?" People have been asking each other this question for days. Most of them now are embarked on their annual 40-day sacrifice of some form of personal indulgence.

The fellow down the hall from me has sworn off martinis for the duration. A girl on the floor below has turned her back on tempting chocolate sodas. The old lady on the floor above has abandoned the reading of lurid confession magazines, a harmless source of thrills for her during the rest of the year.

"Everybody ought to give up something for Lent, daddy," said my daughter, Tracy Ann, 6. "Is it all right if I give up bubble gum?"

I told her that was a fine thing to give up and complimented her on her spirit of fortitude because I saw it would be a real struggle. At six you don't give up bubble gum lightly. When the world is going against you at that age, bubble gum can be a real consolation.

"And what are you going to give up?" asked my daughter. The question stopped me cold.

"I haven't decided yet," I told her.

But what can a middle-aged man give up? He can't give up bossing-baiting, wife - beating or cop-fighting. He already has cut out such frivolities long ago.

If he already on the wagon and embarked on a diet, he can't give up the bottle or the joys of the table. For the time being, these things are part of his past already. The doctor has forbidden him the pleasures most people make such a point of giving up at this period of the year.

When you get right down to it, a middle-aged man on a health kick doesn't have either any vices or joys he is aware of.

In this dilemma I consulted my wife who, fortunately, hadn't decided that for Lent she would give up on giving me advice.

"I can name a hundred things you could still give up," she said, and, bless her heart, I feel sure she could name 200 if she got really started. "But for one thing, why don't you do the draperies a favor and give up smoking those cheap cigars?"

Well, that's an idea. I guess I will give them up.

That leaves just one problem. How am I going to get her to give me the money to smoke expensive cigars?

Family Fun, Redecorating Spark Up Housekeeping

Want to pep up the job of housekeeping? Most women need to now and then.

Plan and give a party. Not the same kind of party you are used to giving with the same guest list, but something a bit different with at least a few new faces.

A party in the offing makes you look at your house with the eyes of a stranger and often prompts some "fixing-up" that makes the house more livable and attractive. Besides, it makes the job of housecleaning less of a chore.

Try out one new recipe every day for a while. Maybe the family is as bored with the same old dishes cooked in the same old way as you are. Cooking is no fun for the cook who doesn't experiment and try out new ideas.

If you are tired of the way your house looks, see how much change you can make without spending any money just by moving furniture and accessories from the spots they have graced for years. It's amazing how much a woman with imagination can do to a house without spending any money, or, at most, a few dollars.

Plan a redecorating and plan your living room the way you would like to have it, and then set out to achieve your goal a little at a time.

Plan for family fun instead of letting every evening fall into the dinner—TV—bedtime routine. Your children will love being taught a simple card game the whole family can play, popping corn, toasting marshmallows, having a book read aloud and so on.

Many simple pleasures can draw a family together and make a housewife feel happy and pleased with herself for having broken a dull routine.

Don't just feel bored with your job when it begins to seem dull. Do something! (All rights reserved, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Presbyterians Ask Probe of Manuals

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Presbyterian Church has called for a congressional probe involving a recently withdrawn Air Force training manual and a 1955 security indoctrination manual. The training manual charges widespread Communist influence in the churches.

Hoffa Is Moving To Organize Egg Farmers in N.J.

ELIZABETH, N. J. (AP) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa returns here today to start a drive to organize the hard-pressed egg farmers of New Jersey.

An alliance between the Teamsters and the egg men could be Hoffa's first step toward a long-time goal—unionization of farm workers. Wary agricultural leaders will be watching the results of the meeting tonight to learn just what Hoffa has in mind. He is expected to meet with a group from Vine-land to outline the findings of Teamster researchers.

The farmers' problem has to do with the price of eggs. They say it costs them 35 cents to produce a dozen and they average a return of 29 cents a dozen.

Mrs. Minnie Katz of the Vine-land group says she wrote Hoffa in desperation. "We chose the Teamsters because they're the strongest," she says. "They're the only ones left to help us. Everything else failed."

Hoffa came here Feb. 19 with the words, "All I know about eggs is that I eat them." After a preliminary meeting of an hour with Mrs. Katz' group, he promised Teamster aid, although he was vague about what could be done. The much-investigated Teamster leader frankly admits his desire for expansion of what is already the nation's largest labor union. That expansion would one day take in the farmer.

"If we can convince the farmers to join with labor," he said here, "we will be able to elect people willing to give workers the same consideration that employers now get from the politicians."

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — U. S. Army officials say Pvt. Donald Fincher, 17, of Buffalo, N. Y., apparently committed suicide Monday.

The announcement gave no clue to the reason for Fincher's act.

Chides Dutchess Medical Society for Opposing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—New York State doctors should seek solutions to the problem of health care for the aged rather than blindly fighting federal intervention, Rep. Howard W. Robison (R-N.Y.) says.

Robison made public Wednesday copies of letters he received from two county medical societies in the state—Chemung and Dutchess—and his replies.

Robison said he opposed the bill but said the problem does exist and something must be done.

The congressman chided the Dutchess group for what he termed its simple blind opposition to a bill that would provide hospital and medical insurance for social security recipients.

He praised the action of the Chemung doctors for expressing opposition to the bill but agreement with its intent. "I would prefer that it be solved for enactment of a home rule measure on the proposal is dependent upon legislative action at Albany and receipt here of official home rule forms.

Papers Are Sent

Corporation Counsel William A. Kelly Wednesday received from Andrew J. Cook Jr., counsel to the education board, copies of the proposed bill as forwarded to Assemblyman Wilson.

The Common Council recessed subject to call of Alderman-at-large Harold L. Kaye, after voting approval of transferring 3.5 acres of stadium land to the education board. The home rule measure is necessary because it involves transference of land, which is considered park property.

Must Await Results

Official forms from Albany must come from both houses of the legislature before action is taken by the aldermen.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel said today that City Engineer Charles J. Cole has been instructed to compile necessary boundary data on the site.

Apparently on the premise that the council committee report might be unfavorable the Kingston Fire Fighters Association decided Wednesday to arrange a meeting with Mayor Edwin F. Radel to discuss their proposal. The firemen have asked that the 56-hour week be reduced to a point where it would be more commensurate with that of employees in other city departments.

Goetschius, a vice president of the New York State Association of Magistrates, and Police Justice Alexander Berman of Hempstead spoke in opposition to the Erwin bill proposed in the State Legislature which would abolish the justice courts in favor of establishing district courts.

In pointing out the disadvantages of a district court, Judge Berman said there are now 16 district judges in Nassau County. Each receives a salary of $17,500 per year and has a personal stenographer, a bailiff and attendant. With all this, they are over a year behind in cases, he said.

He pointed out that the State Association of Magistrates has representative who meet with the motor vehicle commissioner or his agents each year for an exchange of ideas.

President Palen following presentation of a gavel to outgoing president, McDowell, gave a brief review of the accomplishments of the past year, including the school for magistrates held in Chambers School under the direction of Harold E. Macholdt.

"The American National Red Cross," he emphasized, "acting under congregational charter, provides welfare services to the armed forces, veterans and their families, and ministers to the needs of disaster victims both at home and abroad."

It aids health and welfare of those at home, and by 'helping to promote cooperative action among the 84 Red Cross societies comprising the League of Red Cross Societies' it is a 'major instrument for strengthening the bonds of humanitarian service among the peoples of the world.'"

Man Cornered Believed to Be Greene Escapee

CATSKILL, N. Y. (AP)—State Police today cornered a man believed to be cop-shooter Haywood Newcomb in a wooded area near the Catskill Vocational Institute about 15 miles north of here.

More than 100 heavily armed men moved into the area in what amounted to a hand-to-hand search, and a plane circled the area at tree-top level.

Police concentrated on the area after a truck driver reported seeing a man answering the fugitive's description, running into the woods.

Newcomb, 24, who tried to kill a policeman, escaped from the Greene County Jail here Tuesday night, vowing he would not be captured alive.

Pan With Holes Reveals Plan to Simulate Shots

Police reported after five hours of pleading with James N. Zamallo, 30, of 297 Hasbrouck Avenue, who had locked himself, wife and young son in their attic apartment Tuesday, under threats that no shots had been fired, but a dangerous incident came to light today.

Brought to police headquarters, after Zamallo was taken from the house, was a pan perforated in three places. Police said it had been placed on a stove and heated to the point of exploding three .45 calibre magnum shells, apparently to give the effect of shots being fired.

Police said Zamallo had locked himself, eight-year-old son and wife in the apartment after he had argued with his wife. Zamallo is due for city court appearance Friday on a third degree assault charge.

Officers, who were first sent to the house, reported hearing the sound of shots.

Parking Is Topic For Uptown Group

Parking was the main topic discussed at the meeting of the Kingston Uptown Businessmen's Association Wednesday evening at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Need for more parking areas for shoppers was stressed and better use of existing facilities was reviewed. Better enforcement in the existing parking areas, it was felt might better conditions and a communication is to be forwarded to the authorities suggesting there be better enforcement of the parking ordinance in the existing areas.

The opinion of members of the association was that through a more strict enforcement of parking regulations there could be additional parking space provided for shoppers and opening up additional areas near the shopping center would be beneficial to shoppers and stores alike.

Several possible additional parking areas were discussed. Also reviewed was the program for spring promotions, particularly promotions for March and the pre-Easter season.

President Andrew Kozak, who presided, noted an increased interest in the meetings and a larger attendance of the membership.

maribo, airport officials here said the plane might fly directly to Ramey Air Force Base in Puerto Rico. They said the decision would be made aloft on the basis of winds and weather conditions.

The cheers of millions along the way through Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Uruguay kept Eisenhower smiling and in high spirits from the minute he reached South America on his historic goodwill mission 10 days ago.

Shrugs Off Jeers

Shrugging off the only hostile display that amounted to anything, in Montevideo, Wednesday, he told a Uruguayan President Benigno Bordaberry that the jeers of leftist students did not bother him a bit.

The acid fumes of tear gas fired by police at one group of demonstrators brought tears to Eisenhower's eyes, and spray from disciplinary fire hoses blew across the path of his open car, but he was not ruffled.

The President coughed slightly for a moment. He sat down in his bubbletop car, wiped his eyes and within a minute the jumping to feet again waving greetings to the enthusiastic crowds — estimated at 400,000 — who drowned out the two small groups of hecklers.

No Injury to Eyes

The President's doctor, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, examined Eisenhower's eyes after the tear gas episode and reported no injury.

After his speech to the Uruguayan Congress, Eisenhower's car took an unannounced detour to avoid the areas where trouble had erupted.

U. S. Secret Service agents, who had their fingers crossed when the President left Washington Feb. 22 on his 15,560-mile trip, breathed a sigh of relief that the tour went off without any major trouble.

Crowds Biggest Ever

But everywhere the President brought out the biggest crowds that South America has ever seen, and the roars of "Welcome Ike" drowned out the few shrill cries against the United States.

And everywhere he sounded the same theme—the friendship of the United States for her neighbors. Eisenhower made no specific commitments of additional financial help, but he pledged to work with the hard pressed Latin-American countries to raise living standards in the Americas.

He stressed the traditional United States policy of noninterference in the internal affairs of other countries. In an implied warning to the Soviet Union, he promised to defend the right of the Latin Americans to choose their own governments without outside interference.

Ben E. Fenwick, charged with going 45 in a 35-mile zone, made that plea Wednesday. Judge Joseph Wapner decided to find out for himself.

With his bailiff at the wheel, Judge Wapner took a ride in Fenwick's 1954 auto. Fenwick was right. The car wouldn't go 45.

Area Libraries Now Members of Five-County Plan

Three Ulster County libraries have recently been admitted to membership in the Mid-Hudson Libraries, bringing the total to 39, it was announced today.

County memberships went to Port Ewen Free Library, Rosendale Library and the Elting Memorial Library of New Paltz. Blodgett Memorial of Fishkill and Windham Public Library also were admitted recently.

The library association comprises the counties of Ulster, Greene, Dutchess, Columbia and Putnam.

An agreement has been signed with the Adriance Memorial Library, Poughkeepsie, for it to serve as Reference Center for the 5-county system. Approximately $12-$14,000 will be spent annually on books to build up a 100,000 collection of informational adult books at Adriance Library which can then be used on inter-library loan by residents throughout the 5-county area served by the system. Additional funds will be allotted to cover service costs at Adriance.

Mid-Hudson Libraries plan for specific services had been approved as of Jan. 1, 1960, by the State Department of Education and state aid, running into six figures, will be paid to the system on the basis of population and area served.

Full state aid, including an establishment grant of $20,000 for each county will be paid for service in Dutchess, Putnam and Columbia Counties. State aid in Ulster County will apply to all but six towns in the southern part of the county which will be served by the Ramapo-Catskill Library System. In Greene County, state aid will be paid on the basis of the population and area served in Haines Falls, Palenville, Windham and Hunter where local libraries have voted to join Mid-Hudson Libraries and share in the benefits of a library system serving over 300,000 people.

Yen for Gambling Admits $270,000 Theft From Stock Firm in Gotham

NEW YORK (AP) — A Wall Street broker with an expert knowledge of electronic business machines and a yen for gambling and high living has confessed all to the district attorney.

"All," according to Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan's office, amounted to approximately $270,000, stolen over a period of eight years from Walston and Co., Inc., members of the New York Stock Exchange.

But Frank B. Haderer, 50, an $18,000-a-year Walston vice president, can be charged with only $170,000 of the thefts because of the statute of limitations.

No money belonging to clients was involved, the firm said, and the losses are covered by insurance.

Haderer was discharged, and a surety company which covered the company's losses brought charges against him. Haderer was questioned all day Wednesday, and finally forgery and grand larceny charges were placed against him.

The district attorney's office said Haderer explained in detail how he managed to take more than a quarter of a million dollars in amounts from $2,000 to $3,000 a month.

He said he would go to the office after hours or on Sunday, and would alter IBM cards recording the firm's interest in money advanced to clients for stock purchases on margin, fixing them to show a smaller amount of interest than they should.

Then he would punch the amount of the difference on other IBM cards showing the accounts of himself and his wife for purchase of stocks.

Their personal accounts would then be used to buy stock and sell it for cash.

And the cash, the district attorney's office said, went mainly for trips to the gaming tables in Las Vegas and visits to New York night clubs.

The Walston firm has offices in 61 cities.

Haderer, authorities said, has paid back a small amount of the stolen funds.

All for a Feline

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ten policemen came with sirens screaming to search for Colette Barrett's lost cat.

Miss Barrett, a model, reported Wednesday the animal was wearing a diamond choker and gold leash worth $10,000.

The cat, an alley named Irwin, was retrieved from the top of a palm tree. He was wearing only a $20 collar.

Miss Barrett admitted she fibbed.

"But how else could I get five squad cars to look for poor little Irwin," she said.

A detective said there's no law against telling whoppers to Miami Beach police.

Will Bolt Classes

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More than 1,000 Negro students planned to stay away from classes at Alabama State College in Montgomery today in mass protest against expelling nine students for taking part in recent anti-segregation demonstrations.

The plan sent tensions rising in Montgomery, birthplace of the Confederacy, and scene of sit-downs and violence on the streets.

A boycott of variety stores loomed in Tampa, Fla., and a Negro minister at Nashville, Tenn., was contemplating an order either to leave Vanderbilt University Divinity School or be dropped from its rolls.

Tavern Owner Held In Woman's Slaying

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — A tavern owner was charged today with first-degree manslaughter in the shooting of a woman during an argument in the tavern building several hours earlier.

Alphonso Zeppatella, 64, of Rochester, was being held in connection with the slaying of Gertrude Peer, 56.

Police said Zeppatella, who lived in a second-floor apartment over the tavern, and Mrs. Peer argued while entertaining friends in the apartment. Mrs. Peer lived at the same address, police said.

Mrs. Peer ran downstairs from the apartment, police said, and threw several objects at the apartment door.

Zeppatella stepped from the apartment and fired one shot from a .25-caliber Browning automatic pistol, striking Mrs. Peer in the chest, police said.

Zeppatella was being held for arraignment in city court.

Hostesses May Strike Against Mohawk Airlines

UTICA, N. Y. (AP) — Hostesses have threatened to strike Mohawk Airlines, and their spokesman says the pilots will respect picket lines.

The Airline Employees Assn., claiming to represent the line's 65 hostesses, prepared to meet with company officials today to discuss the situation.

The AEA has accused Mohawk of offering a contract to individual hostesses under a cooling-off period in its negotiations with the airline employees group. This violates the Railway Labor Act, the employees group contends.

John Carver, a Mohawk vice president, declined comment on the AEA charge.

The National Mediation Board has stepped into negotiations between the AEA and management.

One point in dispute, besides wages, was a question of Mohawk asking women ticket agents and stenographers to take over as hostesses in event of an emergency.

The hostesses' union contends this practice would put untrained and unqualified personnel on the air-planes.

Mohawk's pilots are represented by the Airline Pilots Assn.

Pakistan Warned By Khrushy of Dangerous Policy

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev warned Wednesday night that the Soviet Union cannot ignore "designs, intrigues and dangerous policies" directed against friendly neighbors. His target obviously was Western-aided Pakistan, currently embroiled in a bitter dispute with Afghanistan.

The Soviet Premier dropped the warning at a diplomatic reception ending the first day of his three-day visit to this neutralist nation on the Soviet Union's southern border.

Khrushchev did not elaborate on his statement, but there was no doubt he had in mind the quarrel between Afghanistan and Pakistan over four million Pathan tribesmen living in Pakistan.

The Pathans in Afghanistan, the country's largest single population group, consider the tribesmen in Pakistan their blood brothers. For years the Afghan government has argued that Pakistan should give them the right of self-determination. Pakistan has rejected the proposal, insisting that the tribesmen are part of its national population.

Khrushchev arrived at a time when both Radio Kabul and Radio Pakistan were firing their heaviest propaganda barrages over the dispute in years.

Afghan Premier Mohammad Daud also indirectly touched on the issue Wednesday night, asserting that "intrigues from a certain quarter" would not endanger Afghanistan or hinder its development.

Both Khrushchev and Daud declared that relations between their countries were based solidly on equality and mutual respect. Daud added that his government follows the same policy in dealing with all nations.

Biting Cold Hampers Army Livestock Aid

KIM, Colo. (AP) — Sub-zero cold bit into storm-weary eastern Colorado again today as Army bulldozers and ranchers renewed their campaign to avert heavy livestock losses.

Three task forces directed by a helicopter and by local guides churned through ocean-like waves of snow to open roads to rural homes and ranches. The most prolonged cold spell in years is feared to be taking a heavy toll of cattle and newborn calves.

Harsh winds that drifted snow six and eight feet high hampered the Army vehicles in their first missions Wednesday.

The 24 officers and men arrived here earlier this week from Ft. Carson, Colo., 200 miles away, in response to pleas from Las Animas County officials for help. Col. Charles L. Heitman, Ft. Carson's acting commander, was due here today by helicopter to determine if further help is needed.

Six of the injured were burn cases, with five considered in fair condition and one in poor condition. The seventh person hurt apparently fell or was thrown down by force of the first blast.

Many Like Mall

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Kalamazoo's downtown shopping mall was six months old last week — and nearly everybody still is happy with it.

In a poll of the 45 retail stores on the mall, the Kalamazoo Gazette found only three dissatisfied.

A survey by the Downtown Kalamazoo Assn. indicated there had been an over-all average increase of 10 to 15 per cent in sales since the mall was opened in August.

Report on Drivers

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Statistics show the average motorist gets a speeding ticket every 15 years, says the Peninsula Motor Club.

In a report Wednesday, the club said the average motorist should get a parking ticket every 2.8 years and it would take the average motorist 16,400 miles of driving to become involved in a fatal accident. He only drives 500,000 in his lifetime.

Rights Battle

Johnson Presses For Compromise; Marathon Holds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) pressed for a compromise bill today while the Southern filibuster against civil rights legislation gathered momentum.

Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) set a new speechmaking record for the current day-and-night debate even as the Senate Democratic leader began talking up a new bill in conferences with Democratic proponents of civil rights amendments. Republicans also were surveying chances of a compromise.

Goes on Nine Hours

Long, son of the late filibustering Huey P. Long, spoke for 9 hours and 21 minutes before yielding the floor early today. With a 75-minute break for other Senate speeches, he held the floor from 1:32 p. m. Wednesday until 12:38 a. m. today. His stint included a solid stretch of 8 hours and 23 minutes.

Another quorum call came at 9:50 a. m., bringing sleepy-eyed civil rights supporters to the Senate chamber from nearby cots and couches. For the most part they were fully dressed, although a few were without neckties.

They mustered a quorum in 31 minutes, and then Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) took over the Southern speaking chore for the pre-breakfast pull.

Smathers served a relatively short stint until 6:45 a. m. His theme was that the civil rights bill is a possible vehicle for dictatorship. He cited figures to indicate increasing registration is providing a home-grown solution for Negro voting rights in Florida.

A quorum call after Smathers' speech kept things quiet for 33 minutes, and then John Stennis (D-Miss.) took over at 7:18.

By then some of the senators in a quorum call apparently were getting hardened to it. At any rate, their average appearance was a bit more spruce and alert than on earlier roundups.

During part of Long's talk, Johnson could be observed in the chamber with the rough draft beginnings of a compromise bill. He mixed earnest conversation with Democratic civil rights supporters.

Some of them reported afterward Johnson had undertaken a drive to find a measure which could win the support of two-thirds of the Senate to limit debate and end the filibuster should that step be necessary.

These senators said Johnson emphasized he was exploring the prospects for bringing out a substitute measure centered around provisions for court-appointed referees to help guard Negro voting rights, and fixing penalties for hate bombings of schools and churches.

Invites Suggestions

Inviting Democratic suggestions, Johnson was looking into a proposal that would drop some other provisions of the administration program introduced by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader.

Dirksen meanwhile undertook separate explorations which carried over into a scheduled midday meeting of all 35 Republicans today.

One question likely to be discussed is whether to try to get a two-thirds Senate vote to halt the marathon legislative battle and, if so, when.

Both leaders were reportedly aware of the difficulty of getting such a vote to pass the seven-point Dirksen bill now pending in the Senate.

They are exploring the possibilities of eliminating some of the provisions which have brought bitterest Southern opposition.

No one expects the Southerners to agree to any civil rights measure, but if they can win enough concessions they might give up their all-out battle. Otherwise, their tactics might alienate other senators favoring a moderate bill and provide enough votes to limit debate.

Civic Assn. Would Scrap Plan for Double Sessions

Abandonment of plans for double school sessions is requested in a letter to Dr. Earl Soper, school superintendent from Eugene DeDea, chairman of the education committee, Kingston Civic Association, the latter revealed today.

"Now that the site for the new junior high school has been decided on, and definite plans can be made immediately, I feel that the problem of classrooms for the seventh and eighth grades should again be reviewed."

"I recall the Forum that was held at the George Washington School where Jansen Fowler was the moderator and the speakers were Mayor Radcl, Robert Herzog, and yourself, Dr. Soper."

"At that time, you made a definite statement to the effect that if definite plans for the junior high school could be formulated in the near future, it would not be necessary to have double sessions."

"I feel sure that you will want to honor this statement and now recommend to the members of the Board of Education that the plans for double sessions be abandoned, and a temporary plan for improving be put into effect."

Po'keepsie Study

except owner-occupied single and double-unit dwellings.

In each community, information was gathered by local residents.

Summary of Reports

Here is a summary of the reports:

Rochester—Negroes number 15,000 in a total population of 338,000. Ninety-five per cent of the Negroes live in predominantly non-white areas.

Neighborhoods in all - white areas "often band together," by executing written or verbal agreements that no Negro will enter their neighborhood. Builders have been "almost 100 per cent successful" in keeping out Negroes as original buyers of new tracts.

Hard to Secure

"Rentals within the suburbs for Negroes are almost impossible to secure." The study was conducted by James H. Swanton.

Plattsburgh—A growing city of 20,000 undergoing "a gradual awakening to the racial problem" because of Plattsburgh Air Force Base and the state teachers college. Both have brought a number of Negro families into the community. Varying reports of discrimination in housing, especially in trailer camps. One trailer-camp owner said "our tenants object to interracial living." Samuel E. Healey, a local attorney, compiled the report.

Concentrated in 2 Wards

Poughkeepsie—Negroes number about 3,000 in the city of about 40,000. No totally non-white communities exist, but Negroes are concentrated in two wards where most of the housing was "unspeakable." Atty. Rudolph P. Russo, who made the report, said:

Greenburgh—An unincorporated town with 13 per cent Negro population. Negroes, regardless of income or professional status, generally cannot buy or rent in all-white neighborhoods and were almost excluded from the new housing market. Edward J. Snyder of Hartsdale made the survey.

Freeport—Negroes represent nearly 6 per cent of the 32,000 residents. "For all practical purposes, non-whites were unable to buy or rent property in white sections," Edward R. Yamin of Freeport reported.

Sands, Sinatra Engaged

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Sinatra's daughter, Nancy, is engaged to singer Tommy Sands.

Her mother, Nancy Sinatra, announced the engagement Wednesday. She said no date has been set, but that Sands, 22, has bought a ring, and will give it to 19-year-old Nancy as soon as she returns from New York.

Boy Is Fire Victim

MONTREAL (AP)—A 4-year-old boy died Wednesday night in a fast-spreading fire. He was Montreal's ninth fire victim in four days.

The boy, Rejean Lacombe, perished when fire engulfed the two-story bungalow of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lacombe, in a matter of minutes. The adults, and two firemen, were taken to a hospital with various burns and cuts.

Earlier Wednesday five firemen were killed when the roof of a building collapsed under them as they fought a three-alarm fire. Sunday, three elderly women were killed in a tenement fire.

In h Sorel, 40 miles northeast of Montreal, two children died Wednesday night when their home burned.

sion of Markets has been enforcing a controlled atmosphere storage law under which the storage operator who has this type of storage is registered and visited frequently by their Market Inspectors to check the operation of storages under this law.

In the last year a Marketing Order and Agreement on apples provides for collection of funds by all cold storages for the promotion program called for under the Order. All storages have been required to furnish storage holdings reports every two weeks. To help enforce these regulations and laws the Department has several inspectors visiting these cold storages in addition to a relatively heavy license fee in most instances. The proposed bill will relieve the apple and vegetable storages of the higher fee.

The Department is also planning to put the inspection of apple and vegetable storages under the Division of Markets so that there will not be duplication of visits by inspectors under their own Department.

Under the amendment proposed to the General Municipal Law, it will be permissive to grant officers and employees of the county and city the right to attend conventions and conferences without seeking the consent of the county board of supervisors or the Common Council of the city. This power would be delegated to the executive officer of the county and to the mayor or head of a city department.

Under the existing law the County Board of Supervisors must grant authority by resolution and in the city only the Common Council has that power.

Budget Passage

minor earns $600 or more, in which case the child must file a return.

Under federal tax laws, children must file their own returns if they earn $600 or more a year. If they earn less, they still may file a return in order to get a refund of any taxes withheld from their pay.

Reduce Wagon Fees

The Senate gave final approval to a bill that would reduce registration fees of station wagons to those of passenger cars. The measure went to the governor.

Sen. Edward Speno (R-Nassau), chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Motor Vehicles, said two of the governor's highway safety bills were dead in this session. He said one bill would have permitted suspension or revocation of drivers' licenses in cases where careless operation caused death or injury.

The other would have allowed junior operators—those 16 and 17—to drive at night only when accompanied by a parent or guardian. At present, they can drive at night if accompanied by any senior operator—one 18 or over.

The Senate approved legislation that would eliminate the Division of Safety and transfer its functions to the Office of Local Government. The bill went to the Assembly.

Other Action

The Assembly gave final approval to bills to centralize functions dealing with veterans in the Division of Veterans Affairs. Both measures were part of the Rockefeller program for reorganization of state government.

Budget bills given final passage in the Assembly included a measure to extend a tax credit for unincorporated businesses. The credit is $15 on the first $100 and $20 on the next $200.

Rockefeller, on his Washington trip, was accompanied by legislative leaders and several aides.

No vote was taken on the telephone-tax plan.

The congressmen, however, did approve these resolutions:

One called for deepening eight Great Lakes ports in New York to enable the state to "participate in the economic benefits . . . of the St. Lawrence Seaway."

The ports are Massena, Ogdensburg, Watertown, Oswego, Sodas Bay, Rochester, Buffalo and Dunkirk.

Another resolution urged year-round operation of Camp Drum, near Watertown, N. Y.

At present, 365 men stationed at the camp must transfer to other camps during the winter.

Second World Tours Take Edge Off Ike, Khrushchev

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—You can run your own test on how much interest you have in President Eisenhower's present journey to South America and Premier Nikita Khrushchev's present tour of Southern Asia.

Just ask yourself how much attention you've been paying to the day-by-day stories about both men and particularly how much, of all they have said in all their speeches, have you read or even wanted to read.

Three Handy Reasons

The answer is probably: not much. And, if this is true in your case, there are three handy reasons:

1. Since they're both on a selling campaign—trying to win good will for their own countries—they are not going to say anything which angers or alienates their hosts. That makes for unexciting speeches.

2. Since both men are going to meet in a May summit conference, neither is likely to say anything so inflammatory it could be interpreted as a deliberate effort to wreck the conference before it starts.

3. We happen to be in a relatively quiet interval which began with the Eisenhower-Khrushchev meeting in the United States in 1959 and will almost certainly extend to the time when the two men face each other again at Paris.

Until they met here last year there had been steadily mounting tension over Berlin—a tension deliberately created by Khrushchev—but he took the heat off and the world returned to calm, waiting to see what Paris produced. Khrushchev on his current tour is speaking out again about Berlin, but he hasn't yet returned to threats or ultimatums and isn't likely to before the summit meeting.

Little Excitement

So it's no wonder there has been little or no excitement in anything either man has said.

Something else seems to have happened, too.

There was tremendous interest in Khrushchev's trip to this country and in Eisenhower's trip later in 1959 to Europe, Asia, and North Africa. But this second go-round of trips by both men has taken the edge off their expeditions, in this country, at least.

This is a curious development in international dealings when it is remembered that a tour of nations by an American president or a Soviet premier was unheard of just a short time ago.

Toddy for Teens

Teen-agers will enjoy hot today after winter sports. Heat apple cider with brown sugar to taste, cinnamon stick and whole cloves. Strain into mugs or heavy footed glasses. If you have a nutmeg grinder the youngsters will enjoy adding their own spicy topping to the toddy.

U. S. Must Heed Warning

Ike's Tour Points To Goodwill in L-A

By STANFORD BRADSHAW
MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)

—Although ending on a note of turbulence, President Eisenhower's 10-day South American tour demonstrated that Latin America holds a tremendous reservoir of good will for the United States.

But the isolated anti-U.S. incidents that cropped up in each of the four countries Eisenhower visited served as a warning that the United States must keep on its toes if good relations are to be maintained.

U.S. officials agree that a strong follow-through on the tour is needed—and there already are signs that it will be made.

More than any other single U.S. move in recent years, the President's visit to Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Uruguay served to strengthen ties among the 21 nations of the Western Hemisphere. It has created an atmosphere in which the solution of specific and touchy problems could come more easily.

Here is a brief recapitulation of some of the obvious achievements of the trip:

It cemented U.S. relations with Brazil, a traditional ally, and showed the strength of the new friendship between the United States and Argentina, a long-time critic.

It clarified for an important segment of Latin America's population the position of the United States as a supporter of peace, nonintervention, democracy and economic development. This clarification was conveyed by the most direct means possible to the estimated three to four million people who saw the President in person, watched him on TV, or heard him on the radio.

It added new impetus to Eisenhower's hopes of bringing Latin America more closely into the free world alliance. He talked with each of the four countries' presidents on the forthcoming East-West summit meeting.

It emphasized Washington's support of curbs on the arms race in Latin America. Eisenhower stressed repeatedly that savings from such curbs could go for economic development.

It enabled Eisenhower to stress that the United States—contrary to some Latin-American thought—does not have inexhaustible financial resources. He made this point in avoiding as tactfully as possible any formal financial commitments to the host countries. Nevertheless, each of the four chiefs of state with whom he conferred let him know they expect more U.S. help.

KHS Retailers Hear Woolworth Manager

The retail classes of Kingston High School were invited to the F. W. Woolworth store for a demonstration goods and a sales talk. Manager Andrew Kozak's main topic was shrinkage and he discussed thoroughly and explained the losses and causes of shrinkage.

A demonstration of goods had been arranged downstairs when the students arrived and seasonable items were shown such as Easter, St. Patrick's Day and the regular good selling merchandise. Students of the retailing class were thoroughly impressed with the talk by Kozak.

DeWitt Follows Mary Ann Leaving 'Be Our Guest'

NEW YORK (AP) — TV comedian George De Witt says he, too, is leaving the show "Be Our Guest," from which Mary Ann Mobley, Miss America of 1959, has been dropped.

"Now we're both out — Mary Ann and me," De Witt said Wednesday night. He added that he had informed CBS that he would leave the show in seven weeks, when his 13-week contract expires. De Witt said he just doesn't "see eye to eye" with the producers on the show's format. The comedian said he has plans for another show.

Miss Mobley, 22-year-old brown-eyed beauty from Brandon, Miss., said Monday she was fired as a singer because De Witt told a producer of the show he didn't want her on it.

De Witt, who MC's the show, refused to say whether he ever said such a thing. He said that he had nothing personal against Miss Mobley because "I don't even know her, really."

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—The army said an Israeli patrol ran into three armed Arab infiltrators Wednesday east of the Gaza Strip, killed one and wounded another in an exchange of gunfire. Emergency Force assigned to keep the truce along the border.

Witnesses Parley
To Be Held Here
March 11 to 13

Over 1,000 ministers from eastern New York and western Massachusetts will converge upon Kingston for the three-day convention of Jehovah's Witnesses March 11 to 13 at the Municipal Auditorium.

From Saranac Lake to Shelburne Falls, Mass., Witnesses are discussing plans to cooperate in transporting entire congregations to Kingston to take part in a seminar on the theme, "Seek Peace and Pursue It." Twenty-three congregations will be represented.

Ernest F. Kidd, presiding minister here, said that local Witnesses are looking forward to the aid the assembly will give them in expanding their ministry in the Kingston area. Emphasizing that skilled workmen require advanced training, he said that a Christian worker needs a firm foundation in Bible education in order to effectively perform his ministry.

The feature event of the assembly will be Sunday March 13, 3 p. m. when a public Bible talk will be given by Frank Spacil on the subject, "Finding Peace in a Troubled World." Mr. Spacil is a district director of Jehovah's Witnesses from the world headquarters of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, Brooklyn.

Mr. Kidd announced that all sessions are open to student ministers and to all local residents. Seats are free and no collections will be taken at any time.

Pamper Palates With Dish Of Maine Sardine Pizza

PIZZA spells good eating in many forms but you haven't really lived until you've tried this Main Sardine Pizza.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Food and Markets Editor

From now until Easter, many housewives will be on the search for good meatless main courses for their family dinners. So let's go to Maine. "Down-east" as it is, you will find plenty of pizza—the teen-agers' delight.

In the icy waters that break on Maine's jagged shore, you'll find catches of silver sardines. So let's combine what we find. What do we come up with? For Lenten meals? Why, nothing less interesting than Maine Sardine Pizza.

This is an interesting variation of the usual Italian recipe, and features Maine sardines and fresh vegetables. The vegetables cook down to form their own sauce, delicately flavored with oregano, the pizza spice. Mrs. Richard E. Reed of Augusta, Maine, gave us this recipe:

Maine Sardine Pizza

Dough: Use a packaged pizza dough, prepared as directed on package. Pat into 12-inch pizza pan.

Filling: Two cans (4 ounces each) Maine sardines, drained, 1 tablespoon mild salad oil, 1 large minced clove garlic, 4 medium tomatoes, thinly sliced, 2 green peppers, sliced, 2 sweet onions, thinly sliced in rings, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon oregano, 2 tablespoons olive oil.

When dough is ready for oven, fill as follows: Drain sardines and leave contents of 1 can or 4 or 5 sardines, whole; mash other sardines with 1 tablespoon oil and minced garlic. Spread or dot over pizza dough. Cover dough with layers of tomatoes, green peppers and onions; the vegetables must be thinly sliced and the onion slices broken into rings; arrange on the dough in a circular fashion to cover it nicely. Sprinkle with parsley and seasonings; center with whole sardines.

Drizzle with olive oil. Bake in an oven (450 degrees F.) for about 30 minutes or until crust is well-browned and topping sizzling hot. Scatter top with grated cheese (optional) just before serving; or serve cheese separately.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Maine sardine pizza, heated French or Italian bread, butter or margarine, large bowl mixed green salad, fresh fruit bowl, cheese, crackers, coffee, tea, milk.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Fish force meat to share the supermarket spotlight this week with the start of the lenten season.

Housewives scouting for substitutes for meatless meals and days should be pleased to know that prices of fish and eggs generally are lower than a year ago. Frozen fish stocks totaled 223 million pounds at last count, up 10 per cent from a year earlier. Abundant production has kept egg prices low for some time.

Haddock fillets wholesale for 34 cents a pound in Chicago, down 10 cents from a year ago, while cod, red snappers and shrimp also are cheaper.

Fish specials include halibut, shrimp, scallops, smelts, codfish steaks, oysters, and haddock. Leg of lamb is frequently featured in the East and South, while picnic hams are popular in the East, South and Midwest.

Pork chop prices are up 4 to 12 cents a pound in some places and fryers are up 2 to 8 cents a pound over a wide area. Eggs shade higher in some places, down in others.

Market experts spot an unusually good bargain in sweet potatoes this week, with crops from New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and Louisiana piled up on store shelves.

Other outstanding buys among vegetables include cabbage, carrots, Florida celery, endive, escarole, lettuce, collard, kale, peas, potatoes, radishes and spinach.

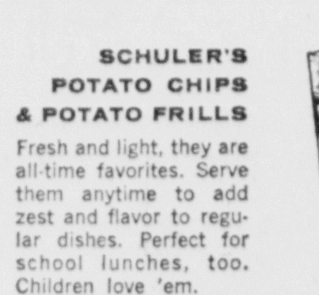

Fruit bargains are avocados, bananas, oranges, grapefruit and apples.

Sheehans Hold Out Till Gunman Fires

ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP)—It took a shot from a .32 caliber pistol to convince a fruit store owner and his wife that the gunman was not fooling.

William Sheehan, 60, and his wife, didn't believe the gunman when he entered their store in West Elmira Wednesday night. "He acted so nervous," Mrs. Sheehan told police.

She said her husband warned the man that "you can't get away with this."

At this point, the gunman fired the shot through a casing in a freezing unit. Then he scooped $400 in cash and checks from the register and fled.

Ask to Run Station

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rockland Broadcasters of New City, N. Y., applied Wednesday to the Federal Communications Commission for permission to operate a radio station at New City.

Rockland Broadcasters, Albert Spiro and Keith Connes, seek a license to operate at 910 kilocycles, one kilowatt, daytime.

Court Backs Up Removal of Man From Utica Job

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—An order removing Dennis P. O'Dowd as general manager of the Utica Board of Water Supply has been unanimously upheld by the Appellate Division, Fourth Department.

The order, issued last November by Supreme Court Justice John S. Marsh, also bars O'Dowd from holding public office for a five year period.

Special State Prosecutor Robert Fischer had sought the order charging O'Dowd had refused to answer questions before a special grand jury probing vice, gambling and political affairs in Utica.

No memorandum accompanied the Appellate Division's decision Wednesday.

O'Dowd, 57, a former city public works commissioner, took over the water supply job in Feb. 1, 1956. It paid $7,000 a year.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Cadets at West Point will look in on the Army Missile School at Redstone Arsenal April 7, via closed circuit television.

The one-hour special class will be the longest TV circuit used by the Army for missile instruction since it took over video as an educational aid in 1958.

A professional TV production team with 17 cameras and five mobile units will be at work at Redstone. Cadets at the U. S. Military Academy, 1,100 miles away, will view the program on a 20-by-12 foot screen.

So They Say..

The most striking of all the impressions I have formed since I left London a month ago is of the strength of African national consciousness. . . . The wind of change is blowing through the continent.

For my money, they're dirty, they're lazy, they're bums and they're crooks. For the most part they have deep inferiority complexes that only disappear when they mix together.

Youth Is Acquitted of Stabbing Ironworker

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP)—A Niagara County Court jury has acquitted Philip Keller, 17, of the nearby town of Wheatfield of first-degree manslaughter in the fatal stabbing of an ironworker.

Keller was charged with knifing Abraham Rodriguez, 36, of North Tonawanda during an argument last Sept. 27.

The all-male jury returned the verdict Wednesday night after nearly seven hours of deliberation. Keller claimed two men assaulted he and Rodriguez on a town road the night of the stabbing.

Local Physicians Participate in Albany Sessions

The Association of Clinical Scientists, an eminent medical research organization, is conducting a three-day scientific research session at the DeWitt Clinton Hotel, Albany, according to Dr. Herbert Derman, Kingston, chairman of local arrangements.

The association members are the guests of the New York State Health Department, Division of Laboratory and Research. Dr. Victor Tompkins, director. Dr. Tompkins and Dr. Ray K. Brown, associate director, will speak on the work of the State Public Health Laboratories where many special virus studies relating to public health have been performed.

In 1948, a virus was isolated from a number of patients living in Coxsackie. These persons suffered from a virus infection, since named Coxsackie disease, which is quite similar to poliomyelitis, although fortunately it is milder and has a very low fatality. Since that time the State Health department has made extensive studies in the virus diseases.

The scientific program of the association includes papers in medical laboratory diagnosis by specialists in the laboratory field of medicine from many states throughout the country. An interesting paper on sleeping sickness will be presented by Dr. Gonzalo Aponte of Jefferson Medical College, titled "The Mystery of Bangangut."

The sessions will conclude with a series of conferences under the direction of Dr. F. William Sunderman, Philadelphia, in preparation for an allied seminar in laboratory diagnosis which is to be presented in the Fall.

Officers of the association are, president, Dr. George F. Stevenson, Chicago, Ill.; vice president, Dr. Herbert Derman, Kingston; secretary-treasurer, Dr. Robert P. MacFate, Chicago, Ill.

At 11:45 a. m. Friday "Spectral Temporal and Mass Phonocardiographic Analysis" will be presented by Dr. David S. Gerbarg, Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Jr., Dr. Harold L. Rakov, and John J. Hoffer, of Kingston.

Six hearts in a good contract for today's hand and difficult to bid. It looks like a cinch to play, but actually it presents problems.

South wins the opening club with dummy's ace. If he is anything but a most careful player he will lay down dummy's king or queen of hearts, whereupon he will have lost the hand. I will probably get a lot of mail contradicting this statement, but I have made it with malice aforethought and am prepared to back it up.

A really careful player will say to himself, "I am in a fine contract and should take every step to ensure it. I can't do anything about a 4-0 trump break, so I will forget about it. I need entries to dummy, so I will lead a low trump to my ace and come back to dummy with a second trump."

South makes that play. Then he discards his losing club on the ace of spades and leads a diamond. If East plays low, South fineses and loses only one diamond. This is a safety play. South is willing to lose one diamond trick in any case. If East plays a high diamond, South wins; learns about the bad break and leads back a low diamond. East wins and gets out with a black card, whereupon South goes to dummy with the remaining high trump and picks up the rest of the diamond suit.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Saugerties High Ranks Well in Holding Students

SAUGERTIES—The holding power of Saugerties High School is considerably higher than the average for high schools in New York State. In 1958 approximately 69 per cent of the pupils who had entered four years earlier was graduated. In 1959, approximately 73 per cent of those who had entered four years earlier had graduated. The percentage for New York State as a whole is approximately 62 per cent. These figures were presented by Superintendent Grant D. Morse at the Board meeting on Monday of this week.

Miss Patricia A. Groat, a graduate of Oneonta State Teachers College in June, was approved by the board as a member of the 1960-1961 faculty. Approval was given by the board for the Saugerties High School basketball team, which placed second in the Dutchess County Scholastic League basketball competition, to participate in the Sectional Tournament at Chapequa.

Superintendent Morse submitted for approval for placement on tenure the following four faculty members: Paul Whiting, Fred Seither, Janet McCaig and David S. Cunningham as high school principal.

Superintendent Morse recommended to the board that insurance protection for players participating in inter-school athletics be increased.

Faculty Requests Medical Help, Salary Changes

Two faculty committees appeared before the Board of Education this week—one to request that the board consider providing Major Medical protection for the people working for the district; the other to request that certain features of the salary schedule be changed.

The faculty committee on insurance, headed by John Welton, a member of the commercial staff of Saugerties High School, pointed out that over 100,000 New York State employees are now protected by Major Medical insurance of the type the Board was asked to consider.

In the event of a severe accident or bad illness, one faculty member pointed out, all that one has, or can hope to earn for years to come, may be wiped out within a few weeks by overwhelming hospital, surgical and other sickness costs.

One board member asked if the teaching group could not buy the protection for themselves. The reply was that no other plan than the so-called State Plan under which the District helps pay the cost provides so full protection at anything like the low rate that the State Plan affords.

The State Plan was selected by the New York State employees after 55 insurance companies were invited to put in bids. Seventeen insurance companies did bid, and the present State Plan was selected as being the best.

John Gardiner, of the New York State Teachers Association, was present to assist the local teachers committee in presenting the request. He indicated that not only does the State Health Plan provide major medical protection against disaster and calamity in health matters, but the present Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage currently carried by the teachers would become about six times more liberal under the State Plan.

One board member asked the teachers' committee whether they preferred Major Medical protection or increase in salary. The faculty member pointed out that the expense to the District for Major Medical protection would be a relatively insignificant cost as compared with proposed changes in the salary schedule. "So," he said, "it need not be a matter of which is preferred. The Major Medical protection is so vital to the welfare of the teachers and their families that they can not afford to pass it up. At the same time," he concluded, "proper salaries should be considered by the Board, and the two together need not be a severe burden on the taxpayers, provided the State Aid to schools is adequate."

The Salary Committee for the teachers was headed by H. Graham Burkhardt. This committee urged that the board actually place the present salary schedule into effect, stating that although the present schedule looks good on paper, there are at least 14 members on the staff who are not currently being paid in accordance with the schedule.

Other more extreme proposals suggested by the committee were the following: That substantially all faculty members be paid for each item of service performed outside of the classroom, such as assisting at football or basketball games, coaching a play, etc.; Sabbatical leave for teachers was also proposed; admission of teachers to committees to settle salary questions; extra pay for each athletic coach for each sport coached by him; increase in accumulative sick leave up to a total of 150 days.

The committee proposed that under sabbatical leave the teacher be allowed to take an approved absence of one year in each seven for further study or travel, meanwhile being paid at ½ the usual salary.

The board listened to the two reports, and assured the faculty committees that they would take the two matters under consideration.

Interesting Books Topic for Adults

Adult Education—"Interesting Books"

The second-semester classes of the "Interesting Books" course of the Saugerties Central Schools Adult Education Program were opened by Mrs. Lewis Fellows' review of Norah Lofts' "Town House." Mrs. Fellows' vivid description carried class members back to medieval England with its serfdom, guilds, and depressing conditions. Detailed descriptions of the lives of each important character in the book brought forth the realization that hardship and despair were common. Mrs. Fellows reported in a chatty way and held the interest of the class.

As a prelude to "Exodus," Mrs. Walter Cowen explained the history of the Jewish people. With this particular background information, the class found much of interest to use in interpreting this unusual best seller by Leon Uris. Mrs. Cowen's review was outstanding.

The 50th state, Hawaii, became the center of attention when Mrs. Paul Kruger reviewed James Michener's "Hawaii." This recent work, a book of almost one thousand pages, was ably described and discussed. The class was impressed by Mrs. Kruger's excellent report. To give more scope to the study of "Hawaii" the class indulged in a study of legends. At a follow-up meeting, color slides were shown by William T. House who had spent some time on the islands. Mr. House related a legend concerning Pelee and told how important were the legends to the Hawaiians. The beautiful pictures and clear explanations were greatly appreciated by those present.

Since much publicity has been given to the topic of bomb shelters, Charles Rice's informative talk provided helpful information. The class had read Neville Shute's "On the Beach" which aroused the interest of the members in the safety of Americans. Mr. Rice's facts and charts, as well as his interesting method of presentation, made this an important meeting.

The class meets Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Saugerties Public Library with Mrs. Vera Mack, instructor.

May 2 Execution Set for Chessman

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Caryl Chessman's new appointment with the gas chamber is May 2.

Superior Judge Clement D. Nye set the date Wednesday for the condemned sex terrorist over the vigorous objections of Chessman's attorneys. The lawyers claimed a new execution date could not be set until a 60-day reprieve, granted Feb. 19, by Gov. Edmund G. Brown has expired. Nye said sentence is legal because the new execution date is after the end of the 60-day period.

In San Quentin, where Chessman has eluded execution for 1½ years with a series of court appeals, the convict-author commented: "It doesn't look as if I'll reach the age of Jack Benny."

The famed comedian, who is 66 for years has jokingly claimed he is 39. Chessman will be 39 May 27.

Bids Cutlery Firm Give Clear Markings

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Federal Trade Commission examiner today recommended that Utica Cutlery Co., Utica, N. Y., be required to disclose more prominently the Japanese origin of some stainless steel tableware it markets.

The initial decision by examiner Everett F. Haycraft now goes to the full commission where it may be adopted, rejected or amended. Haycraft said the Japanese-made tableware is stamped with the name of the country of origin but that "such markings are difficult if not impossible to discern."

He held that since the foreign origin is not disclosed on the packages, purchasers are misled into believing the tableware is made in the United States.

The FTC issued a complaint against Utica Feb. 27, 1959.

Protests From GOP in Albany

Assemblymen Say Senators 'Play Politics' on Tax Cuts

By ROBERT T. GRAY

Associated Press Staff Writer
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Republican assemblymen are protesting to party leaders that GOP senators are playing politics with tax-relief talk.

In fact, some assemblymen are bluntly accusing their colleagues in the Senate generally considered the more dignified of the two houses, of outright grabs for headlines.

No Decisions Yet

The possibility the 1960-61 budget might provide some personal-income tax relief arose among GOP senators and has been mostly confined to that house.

No decisions have been reached. Under the firm hand of Speaker Joseph F. Carino, no widespread talk of tax cuts has erupted publicly among assemblymen.

Carino favors more aid to education in preference to tax relief. Most of the GOP majority in his house have supported him so far, although several members reportedly are doing so reluctantly.

So, while the Assembly concentrates on school aid, its members are watching GOP senators frisking in the warm public reaction to any talk of tax relief.

Embarrassed by Actions

Carino says members of his house are "embarrassed" by the senators' actions on the tax-relief issue. The assemblymen maintain that if there is a possibility of tax relief it should be an overall party venture. Some note ruefully that party leaders called for united Republican support last year for record tax increases.

If there is no possibility of a tax cut, the Assembly Republicans assert, then the GOP senators should not try to reap political capital.

Stems From Clash

A great deal of the conflict actually stems from a clash between the respective majority leaders of the two houses.

Sen. Walter J. Mahoney has been aligned with the tax-cut forces. Carino has consistently backed Gov. Rockefeller's stand that there will not be sufficient funds for any tax relief. Mahoney has made no guesses about the final outcome. Carino predicts the senators will back down first.

But, while priding themselves on exercising statesman-like restraint and responsibility, many assemblymen are looking fondly over to the tax-cut side of the fence, where the political grass might be looking a bit greener.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

One of the readers of this column, a former Kingstonian, now lives in Dumont, N. J. He was a newspaperman in Kingston from 1900 to 1906, is now retired and over 75 but his memory is crystal clear. He often sends me very good material for this column. Just received a magazine called: "Cavalier" dated July 1959 covering the tragic race of two Hudson River steamers, Armenia and the Henry Clay. What a TV picture that would make.

This happened July 28, 1852. It is written up by Avram Davidson and a good painting of the two steamers crashing with each other, by Fred Freeman. He writes in part: "The great golden eagle fixed to the foremast of the Henry Clay showed her to be racing ahead of her sister ship, the steamboat, Armenia, whose bare foremast was a few yards behind." The coal dust was powdering both magnificent immaculate vessels with soot, the vibrations of their steple-engines caused the two crafts to quiver and shake, he wrote.

The passengers were frantic, Stephan Allen, the 84 year old ex-mayor of New York City, demanded to know "What is the purpose of this infernal racing, sir?" of the First Mate, Dillo Stone. First Mate Stone replied, "The Henry Clay's the best boat on the Hudson, Your Honor, and the Armenia's got to be made to know it!" What pride will do. What Stone didn't know, was that Armenia's owner-skipper, Captain Isaac Smith, had stayed behind in Albany on business. "Ik" Polhorius was the pilot in the Armenia's wheelhouse.

The author of that article did much research for he described the situations on both boats during the race and gave the list of passengers, and later who lost their lives or were hurt. The captain of the Henry Clay, John Tallman, was ill below deck, so that both ships were without the guiding hand of its captain. No doubt those in this vicinity saw the race well, for item reads in part: "The ships were only a few feet apart, with engine wracking speed, their prows seemed absolutely even. To the right lay Turkey Point, Kingston, the next landing, was five miles south. The engines thumped feverishly, the walking-beams flew up and down, the four paddle-wheels beat the river to froth."

The safety of humanity was forgotten as greed, boastfulness and anger took over and turned the men piloting the ships into beasts, red with fury, and so the Henry Clay crashed its prow ripping and splintering into the port side of the Armenia.

The followed advertisement appeared in the July 28, 1852, Albany papers, the morning of that tragic race: "Steamboat Armenia for Hudson, Catskill, Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, and N. Y. City Leaves Albany every morning at 7. Arrives at Jay Street Dock, NYC, at 4. No Sunday trip. Meals served aboard."

The other advertisement read: "The new and elegant steamer, Henry Clay will leave Albany at 7 every morning for Hudson, Catskill, Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, and N. Y. City. Arrives at dock, foot of Jay Street at 4 p. m. N.B. Under no circumstances will any of the above landings be omitted." The last line meant that they promised they would not race, but stop at every landing.

The race has to be read in detail, and the tragic end of the Henry Clay, and death of 100 passengers which caused Congress to pass the Steamboat Inspection Act, ending forever the wild sport of racing engine-propelled ships on the Hudson river.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The suburban village of Mackenzie, 20 miles from the nearest streetcar line, is revising its ordinances to eliminate one regulating streetcars. How did the ordinance happen to get on the books? "Most of the ordinances were copied from other cities, and they contain a certain amount of extraneous matter," explains William Mattingly, the village clerk.

NEW YORK (AP)—At least a million Americans are planning to do their own bit for foreign aid this year. Other lands and steamship companies and airlines are getting ready for record hordes of dollar-spending tourists.

Americans are expected to spend close to three billion dollars on travel beyond the borders of the United States.

Europe Looks for Record

Europe is looking for a record number of them, 770,000, up from 630,000 last year, and expects them to spend around a billion dollars.

The fast-growing Far East tourist trade hopes to cater to at least 100,000 Yankees this year.

Latin America counts on President Eisenhower's visit to stimulate American interest in its tourist attractions.

Overseas travel has been growing each year since World War II.

The latest official figures by the Department of Commerce show 1,398,000 Americans going overseas in 1958 and spending $2,129,000,000.

Airlines and shipping companies this year expect to take at least 770,000 vacationing Americans across the Atlantic.

May Hit Two Million

Jet planes will carry more persons faster. Counting both east-bound and westbound traffic, and passengers other than tourists, the airlines may hit the two-million mark. They have more available seats and are planning to cut fares.

Advance bookings indicate the surface ships may carry a million passengers all told this year.

In an early season survey of European prospects, the American Express Co. sees 770,000 American tourists spending dollars from Madrid to Moscow, for a new travel record both in numbers and in dollars. It polled its offices in 37 major tourist centers, and they queried hotels, tourist offices, car hire and tour operators.

The American Automobile Assn. predicts 250,000 of the tourists will motor through a part of Europe this year, compared with 200,000 last year. Advance bookings for rental cars are 80 per cent ahead of 1959.

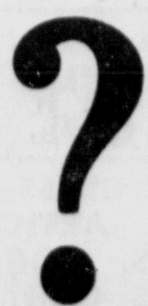

Transatlantic airlines' report flight reservations running from 15 to 100 per cent higher than this

Official Song for N.Y. May Come From Assembly Concert

By MICHAEL KEATING
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — They shall have music in the Assembly next week and from the concert may come an official song for New York State.

There will be no music in the Senate, though.

An Air Force band will be in the west balcony of the Assembly chamber next Wednesday to serenade the legislators with the "Hudson-Champlain March."

Assemblyman Grant W. Johnson (R-Essex County) is hoping the assemblymen will like the tune so much they will vote to make it the official state song.

Johnson is sponsoring a bill that would make this so.

Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlini said he had given Johnson permission to bring the 579th Air Force Band from Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh, to play the song, Johnson said he hoped to have a chorus, or at least a soloist, sing the lyrics.

But Walter J. Mahoney, Republican majority leader in the Senate, will have no bands playing in that house.

When asked by a reporter if he would permit such a display, Mahoney gave a stern "no." He would not say why but his attitude clearly indicated he thought the business was undignified.

The Hudson-Champlain march was composed for the celebration last year of the 350th anniversary of the discovery of Lake Champlain by Samuel de Champlain and of the Hudson River by Henry Hudson.

The composer is Chief Warrant Officer Vernon E. Proctor of the Air Force. Major John Hassard, also an airman, wrote the lyrics.

Although New York State has no official state song, "The Sidewalks of New York" often is used. This song, however, pertains more to New York City than to the entire state.

At the conference of legislative leaders held here last December, the state songs of the various delegations were played by the orchestra. The New York City delegation joined in lustily in singing Sidewalks of New York but it was noticed that most Upstate legislators remained mute.

Air-Conditioning Workers Oppose Orders to Union

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — The giant Carrier air-conditioning plant, struck by 3,000 production workers in protest of disciplinary action against union officials, was virtually silent today.

Only salaried employees entered the plant as pickets patrolled the main gate on Thompson Road.

A union spokesman said the salaried employees were allowed to cross the picket line.

The strike Wednesday night came after the company laid off the president of Local 585, United Steel Workers, and reprimanded four other local officers for allegedly interfering with production.

The local, recently certified as bargaining agent for Carrier's

3,070 production and maintenance workers, is negotiating a contract with the company.

The company charges the union leaders induced other employees to refuse to work overtime.

The union contends Carrier was ordering overtime work to stockpile equipment in the event of a strike.

William T. Lane, vice president in charge of corporate relations, said the overtime was necessary to fill a heavy backlog of orders.

He said the company must make its air conditioners for homes now to have them available for the selling season.

John Kowalski, an international representative of the union, said 2,000 Carrier workers voted unanimously at a union meeting Sunday to refuse to work overtime and to strike if the company took disciplinary action against those who refused.

Lane said Francis Brewster, local president, was given a five-day layoff Wednesday morning for refusing to do work assigned to him.

Brewster is a welder. The four other local officials were reprimanded, Lane said, for inducing fellow workers to refuse to work overtime. This was the minimum penalty, the vice president said.

He identified the four as: Frank Sopper, local vice president; Arthur Calland, recording secretary; Larry Swidowski, financial secretary; and Paul Hazelgrove, treasurer.

Johnson, Symington Definitely in Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) are official candidates now for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The two presidential hopefuls backed into the race Wednesday with separate announcements they would not withdraw their names from the May 20 Oregon presidential primary. Both still avoided any direct statements that they are candidates.

Johnson said he was too involved in the Senate filibuster on civil rights to give any attention to outside political matters. But he said he has "no plans to act in any way on the Oregon action."

This meant he would not file an affidavit with the Oregon secretary of state to take his name off the ballot. Oregon law requires that all nationally recognized candidates be named. They can withdraw only by filing a statement disavowing candidacy. Johnson's announcement was interpreted as indicating he has not lost hope he can combine Southern and Western backing in a serious challenge for the nomination.

Johnson's Southern support has been shaken by his action in bringing the civil rights issue before the Senate. Some of his Dixie colleagues have sent word to him they don't think he can hold their state delegations for him if he eventually votes for a debate limitation to end the current Southern filibuster, which he may have to do.

Without strong Southern backing, Johnson may not be in a position to challenge Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), an announced candidate. Kennedy has been saying recently that Johnson is his biggest rival but that was before the civil rights controversy exploded.

Kennedy's name, put into the Oregon contest by the state secretary of state, will stay there along with those of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) and Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore).

Finch Murder Case May Go to Jury Friday to Decide

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A prosecutor says Dr. R. Bernard Finch's "whole soap opera was a lie."

And the society surgeon's mistress and co-defendant, Carole Tregoff, the prosecutor said, is a "latter-day Lady Macbeth" who was the "aggressor and instigator" in the slaying of the doctor's wife.

Finch, 42, and Miss Tregoff, 23, have been on trial since Dec. 8, charged with conspiracy and murder in the shooting of Barbara Jean Finch, 36, last July 18. The prosecution continues its final summation today, and the case may go to the jury Friday.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Fred N. Whichello—almost like a father confessor in his cross-examination of Finch during testimony—tore into the doctor Wednesday like a bristling Marine sergeant. Whichello told the jury that the doctor is "a man without character and a man without principles" who has told "a self-serving piece of fiction in denying he killed his wife."

Finch maintains a gun went off accidentally while he and his wife were struggling, but Whichello rejects this as an "obvious absurdity."

Whichello began his denunciation of the doctor's story after the defense completed its three-day summation. Defense Attorney Grant B. Cooper argued that Mrs. Finch concocted stories about being beaten by her husband and spread them among her friends to increase her financial take in a divorce suit she had pending.

DeGaulle to Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle flew to Algeria today for the military inspection which the French settlers' insurrection in Algiers in January delayed.

Loughran Acquitted Of Weight Scheme

NEW YORK (AP) — Fred J. Loughran, former director of the city's Bureau of Weights and Measures, today was acquitted of charges stemming from a butchers' short-weight scheme.

A Kings County jury cleared Loughran after deliberating more than nine hours.

Loughran, 47, was one of a number of city employees fired several months ago in a crackdown against price cheating. City investigators claimed butchers made payoffs for the right to short-weight buyers and sell inferior cuts of meat.

Loughran was charged specifically with extorting $900 from Manny Seligman, a Brooklyn butcher, on a threat of harassing him with summonses.

Loughran's alleged accomplices included Bert Smith, a former Bureau of Weights and Measures inspector, and Emanuel Lapidus, former head of a poultry workers union. Both men pleaded guilty—Smith to conspiracy and Lapidus to extortion—and are awaiting sentencing.

Fire Toll Now 63

PUSAN, Korea (AP) — More bodies were recovered today from the rubble of a fire-ravaged chemical plant in Pusan, raising the toll of known dead in the disaster to 63.

All but four of the known dead were women. They were among about 300 workers caught on the plant's second floor when the fire broke out Wednesday.

What's for Supper?

Forty days of Lent, which commenced yesterday, presents a problem for many homemakers. They just don't know what to cook.

Demetria Taylor, nationally known home economist who spent eight years with Good Housekeeping, four years as head of McCall's kitchens, and 13 years as Parade's home economics director, tells us not to worry about it. Miss Taylor refers us to world-famous meatless dishes from Europe and Latin America. "Take the time to prepare them with care," she says.

We learn that the 40 days of Lent are no problem to homemakers in many countries. Fish, eggs, and cheese are at the heart of many national dishes in France, Italy, Portugal, the Low Countries and Latin America, primarily because they are so well liked.

North America, on the other hand, Miss Taylor tells us, is a country of meat eaters. The average American doesn't count it dinner unless the entree is steak or beef. Meat is so plentiful and of such fine quality that many homemakers have never taken the trouble to discover how good fish can be when properly cooked. The same goes for eggs and cheese. How many times has your family grumbled on Friday and fast days, nibbled without appetite on dry, overcooked fish, tough fried eggs or plain casseroles of macaroni in lumpy cheese sauce, put together without imagination or love?

That needn't be, Miss Taylor emphasizes. Lean on "convenience foods" from cans and packages to complete the meal in time-saving fashion. (I thought that was the rule rather than the exception nowadays!) Intrigue your family by telling them ahead of time which country will be featured at the dinner hour. (Particularly when you are rushing about getting the children off for school.) The 14-carat suggestion Miss Taylor makes is—"you might even ask the children to do a little research on the country involved." Now that every busy mother will appreciate!

Seriously, however, there are many cooking tips we can borrow from other countries. In France, the people are so fond of fish that they often combine several varieties in a single dish such as their world-famous bouillabaisse. Any good cookbook would have this recipe.

In Ireland, the land of potatoes, cooks line a baking tin with leftover vegetables (carrots, peas, green beans, cabbage) over which is spread mashed potatoes topped with a tomato sauce and baked for 20 minutes. This, coupled with a crisp salad and a loaf of Irish soda bread, rounds out a main course. For dessert, the Irish homemaker will serve baked apples with cream and good strong tea.

In Belgium you would be served a cheese pie, made with grated Swiss cheese, eggs, milk and seasonings. The dinner would begin with clear, hot tomato soup. With the cheese pie would be served sweet-sour cucumber slices, buttered, sliced beets, Brussels sprouts and hot French bread. For dessert, fresh fruit.

In Portugal, where fish is a major food, a Portuguese fish soup is served during Lent. The soup contains fillets of cod or whitefish, shrimp, chopped parsley, basil, chopped onions, white bread, hard cooked egg yolks, blanched almonds and seasoning.

The soup is served with toasted French bread, one slice in each plate. The soup is so hearty that only a tossed salad is needed to complete the main course. For dessert, fresh fruit, cheese and coffee.

Latin-Americans enjoy crabmeat and rice while Hungarians, who like their dishes highly seasoned, savory and rich with sour cream, like a fish-potato casserole during Lent.

All these recipes are available just by dropping me a card. All in all, I would say that Miss Taylor offers many fine tips but I'm afraid that most homemakers will continue to find Wednesdays and Fridays during Lent throwing fast curves at them. So it's back to baked macaroni in lumpy sauce, dry fish and tough fried eggs!

EMBARRASSED BY TOO MANY PRESENTS

Dear Mrs. Post: A young girl from out of town whose aunt I have known since childhood, is going to college in this city. My own daughter also goes to this same college and they have become good friends. The girl in question lives at the sorority house. I invited her to have Sunday dinner with us whenever she would like to come. Every time she comes, however, she brings something for me—either a box of candy or some flowers or some small present. This embarrasses me very much as I don't want her to spend the little money she has on buying presents for me. But how can I tell her not to do this without seeming unappreciative. I know she appreciates my having her to dinner and I suppose she feels she should do something to repay my hospitality. Will you please tell me how I can tactfully put an end to this.

Answer: You might tell her that she gives you so much pleasure by coming to dinner that you already feel in debt to her, and please not to add to it by bringing presents to you.

Waving to Friends in a Restaurant

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to wave a greeting to a friend who is seated at another table in a restaurant? I did this the other day and my mother said that it was not good manners to wave. Will you please tell me if she is right about this?

Answer: You should wait until you catch a friend's eye and then smile your greeting. You may also make a slight gesture with your hand, but to wave your whole arm is not good manners.

Introducing Business Acquaintances

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I own and operate a store. When a salesman or other businessman comes into the store whom I do not know my husband usually introduces them to me. I would like to know if I should offer my hand on this occasion?

Answer: Not necessarily, unless they are customers your husband knows well. But in any case, it would be courteous on your part to do so.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-4, entitled, "Wedding Expenses," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E.P., care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

The Misses Weintraub, 19 year old identical twins, have already appeared as soloists with symphonies and orchestras and given numerous recitals. Duo-piano playing is difficult as it requires an especially accurate sense of time, sound phrasing and unity.

Robertson Gets 2 Score Honors With 80 Points

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An 80-point burst in his last two games has just about assured Cincinnati's great Oscar Robertson of two more scoring achievements in major college basketball—his third straight national scoring title and an all-time career average record.

With two more regular season games to go, and up to four tournament starts, Robertson has 841 points and a 35.0 average for a comfortable lead over St. Bonaventure's Tom Stith in the scoring race.

In his career, Robertson has averaged 34.2 and, according to statistics of the NCAA Service Bureau in New York, needs to average only about 10 points a game to break the all-time career average of 32.5 set by Furman's Frank Selvy in three seasons ending in 1954.

On the team level, Ohio State remains first in offense with a 92.3 average, and California in defense with 48.1.

Half Switch

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—(NEA)—Prentice Gautt, former Oklahoma fullback, will be used at offensive halfback with the Cleveland Browns, according to coach Paul Brown.

ABOUT FRITZ

If Arlington High School athletic director and three-sport coach Fritz Jordan decides to settle down and lead a normal life after 27 hectic years, the sports world will miss him. Watching Arlington High play a basketball, baseball or football game without Fritz Jordan at the helm is the same as taking in a San Francisco Giant baseball game without Willie Mays in Centerfield.

The Maroon mentor is a rare specimen in these modern days. He not only serves as athletic director at Arlington, but still teaches gym classes and coaches the three major sports, and with a great deal of success.

When his cagers clinched the DCSL title in a playoff against Saugerties Monday, it marked the 36th championship for a Jordan-coached club in 27 years. They include the four he spent at Pine Plains tutoring for the Arlington job.

Broken down, the record shows 18 championships in basketball, 11 in football and seven in baseball. His winning percentage for the three sports is in the neighborhood of .750, which is just short of brilliant, to say the least.

HE MAY QUIT

He is going to throw the matter into the laps of the Superintendent of Schools and the School Board, Fritz said with the long hours involved in coaching three sports, he sees very little of his family. He also feels a monetary compensation is forthcoming, not only because of the long hours but also because of the success Fritz has had at Arlington.

A GREAT LEADER

Those who have been following the fortunes of Fritz Jordan and his Arlington team over the years will admit that he is one of the most respected coaches in the area.

It is the feeling of this observer that on a given day or for a given game, Arlington High teams can rise to the occasion and play just a little bit better than before.

That coach with the hair now turned grey is responsible for this. Fritz Jordan is a great leader, a coach who thinks of his players first and everything else second.

Fritz is not calm, by any means, during a game. He is forever jumping up and down off the bench. He talks to the boys during a timeout or between quarters are something to remember and they might be classified as historic. His high pitched voice can always be heard above the roar of the crowd and many opposing teams, coaches and fans have little love for the Maroon mentor. Love — no — but respect — yes.

Who can knock success? Fritz has had a lot of it and we just can't visualize him sitting along the sidelines watching Arlington High play. We sincerely hope it doesn't happen because if it does, a lot of the glamour will leave high school sports. Fritz Jordan as a coach is in a class all by himself. His kind of specimen comes along once in a lifetime.

KUDOOS TO SAM J.

On the subject of coaching, Sam J. Kalloch, that famed round man at Poughkeepsie High, deserves another note of congratulations.

Sam and his boys can clinch the DUSO cage title by beating Port Jervis tonight and when this happens, the Pioneers will have the second leg of the triple crown all tucked away. Poughkeepsie captured the football title and after basketball, only the baseball championship remains.

Kalloch had a winner in all three sports back in 1955 when Monty Stickle was a senior. That year, Poughkeepsie went unbeaten in football and basketball and lost only to Port Jervis in baseball.

Kalloch is a legend at Poughkeepsie. He simply goes on and on while the other coaches either retire or transfer to other schools. His basketball triumph will have been well earned because to win it, Poughkeepsie had to score victories in its final 12 games.

Enough columns have been written about Sam so another one is not needed today. His record certainly speaks for itself.

Orangemen Edge Niagara: Hopes For Tour Gain

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Syracuse University's basketball team hope for a post-season tournament bid was higher today after gaining its 13th win at the expense of Niagara.

The Orangemen edged Niagara 73-69 Wednesday night at Syracuse for their sixth straight victory. Syracuse has lost six.

The Orange grabbed a quick lead and remained in front. Niagara's Al Butler, the nation's third leading scorer, topped both teams with 29 points. Steve Berkenfield, with 20 points, paced the winners.

Niagara has 13 wins and 11 losses.

At Clinton, Hobart took a 63-61 victory over Hamilton and ended its season with eight victories in 16 games.

Hamilton has won eight and lost six.

Elliott Tells Team To Cheer Victories

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics new manager says there will be no place on the club for players who don't have a strong aversion to losing.

"When we win a ball game I want our players to live it up and have all the fun they can in the clubhouse," Bob Elliott said Wednesday.

"But after we lose a game I don't want to hear any singing, shouting or even any loud bubble-gum popping. I want the players to come in, get their showers and be on their way."

The A's finished 1959 in second division.

Rodriguez Whips Vejar: Clamors For Jordan Bout

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Luis Rodriguez had no sooner finished thumping Chico Vejar when he raised a new clamor for a welterweight title bout with Don Jordan.

"Why should Kid Peret fight Jordan instead of me?" the 21-year-old Cuban asked in his dressing room. "He's fourth-ranked challenger and I'm first-ranked."

No one was offering any rebuttal, least of all the veteran Vejar, who lost a unanimous 10-round decision to Rodriguez Wednesday night at Miami Beach Exhibition Hall.

"He has the fastest pair of hands of any man I've fought," Vejar said. "I think he'll go a long way in either welterweight or middleweight classes."

Vejar, 28, from Stamford, Conn., weighed 154½ and Rodriguez 149½ for their bout.

Rodriguez decked Vejar for a five-count in the sixth round and staggered him in the fifth, seventh and ninth cantos.

Jaycees and KPA Score Victories In Over 30 Loop

Nine players figured in the scoring, as the Jaycees trounced the Siena Alumni, 53-20, in the Over 30 basketball league. Kingston Patrolmen's Association defeated Elks Lodge, 24-10, in the companion game.

Tom Stenson led the Jaycees with 11 points and Tom Hickey and Allen Drake potting 10 apiece. Frank Reis swished 10 for Siena.

A balanced scoring attack, with Barney Fowler and Al Hutton leading with 5 points each, accounted for the KPA win over the Elks.

Bisons Whipped By Americans in League Contest

The Rochester Americans have served notice that they are going to be tough to dislodge from second place in the American Hockey League.

Threatened with the loss of the runnerup spot Wednesday night, the Americans whipped the third place Buffalo Bisons 3-1 and increased the gap to three points.

Bob Nevin and Pat Hannigan scored late in the third period for the victory after Buffalo had tied the score early in the finale on Eddie Kachur's goal. Until Kachur blinked the red light, Rochester held the lead by virtue of Dick Van Impe's second period goal.

Cleveland and Hershey hooked up in a rough and tumble sudden death overtime affair with the Barons emerging victorious 3-2 and advancing within one point of Buffalo. Greig Hicks set up Don Hogan for the game winner at 6:11 when he stole the puck deep in the Hershey zone.

Giles Boisvert, Cleveland goal tender, had only 14 saves in a game in which a total of 50 minutes in penalties was called. In one of two fights, Cleveland's Bill Shwertz and Hershey's Don Hurst were tossed out of the game.

Williams Slated For Sox Batting Part-time Coach

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—Is there a managerial job in Ted Williams' future?

Speculation rippled through spring training camps today on the heels of the announcement the 40-year-old slugger, last of the 400 hitters, will serve as part-time batting coach for the Boston Red Sox.

After a conference with General Manager Bucky Harris, field boss Billy Jurges called a press meeting Wednesday to announce the assignment for Williams "in addition to his regular chores."

Ted, bothered by a painful neck ailment for a full year, said he doubted if he could play when he reported to camp Monday. However, he admitted he felt better Wednesday, ran hard, poked a couple of drives over the right field wall and barked:

"I didn't come out here to be a pinchhitter."

The idea of the great left-handed batsman becoming a managerial possibility has been bantered about in the Boston press for several years. The stir went beyond Red Sox fandom with the announcement of his coaching duties.

Williams shrugs it off. "It's nothing really new," Ted said. "I've been helping any hitter who asked for 10 or 12 years now."

Hilltoppers, Falcons Earn Places in NCAABB Tourney

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Colorful Ed Diddle's Western Kentucky Hilltoppers and Maj. Bob Spear and his young, eager Air Force Falcons are teams No. 14 and 15 for the fast-filling 25-team NCAA basketball tournament today.

By nightfall, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia probably will have joined the list.

The Air Force, making its first NCAA appearance, accepted an at-large invitation Wednesday while the Falcons were rolling up their 12th victory in their last 16 games, 65-58 over Regis, Western Kentucky, in the tournament for the first time since 1940, wrapped up the Ohio Valley Conference championship and an automatic berth in the NCAA showdown with an 83-69 romp over East Tennessee State.

At the same time, St. Joseph's set up its probable selection as the Middle Atlantic Conference representative to the tourney by clinching the M-A university division title in a 78-66 victory over Lafayette.

The night's developments left the NCAA with eight at-large teams, NYU, Miami of Florida, Notre Dame, Navy, Idaho State, California, DePaul and Air Force, and with seven conference representatives determined—Ohio U. of the Mid-American, Georgia Tech of the Southeastern, Ohio State of the Big Ten, West Virginia of the Southern, Texas of the Southwest, Western Kentucky of the OVC and New Mexico State of the Border.

The eventual Ivy League winner (Princeton currently leads) gets one at-large berth while the NCAA will pick Sunday between Oregon and Oregon State and Southern California and UCLA for the two others.

North Carolina and Wake Forest are co-favorites in the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament opening a three-day run in Raleigh, N.C. today to pick the ACC's champ and team for the NCAA.

Conference races still undecided are the Missouri Valley, where Cincinnati has clinched at least a tie, the Big Eight, where Kansas and Kansas State are tied with one game to go; the West Coast Athletic Conference, where Pepperdine has clinched at least a tie; the Skyline, where Utah leads Utah State by a game with two games to go; and the Yankee, where Connecticut is 7-2 with one to go and Maine 6-2 with two to play.

Returns as Coach

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams have announced that Hampton Pool, former Ram head coach, has returned to the team as Coach Bob Waterfield's first assistant, and will be in charge of offense. Although terms of Pool's contract were not disclosed, it was understood he will get $20,000 a year.

5-10 Inch Snow

Due for Section

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The Weather Bureau issued this weather warning at 8:45 a. m. today for the interior of Eastern New York:

Heavy snow, which has already occurred over the mid-Atlantic states, with depths up to 15 inches in the mountain areas, is moving northeastward this morning and at 6 a. m. was spreading into the extreme southern counties of eastern New York. Snow is expected to continue to spread across eastern New York today, reaching the central counties by mid-day and the northern counties by late afternoon and night. Around 5-10 inches of snow is expected over most sections of southern and northeastern New York, and 3-6 inches over the St. Lawrence area and the western Adirondacks. More than 10 inches are likely in the Catskills and eastern sections of the Adirondacks. The storm is expected to taper off late tonight and early Friday, but strong winds in the wake of the storm will cause considerable drifting during Friday, with snow flurries.

Pope Names Seven

Cardinals, College At Peak Number

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII today designated seven prelates of the Roman Catholic church to be cardinals. They included the first Negro, the first Japanese and the first Filipino ever elevated to the College of Cardinals.

Their elevation will bring the membership of the church's highest body to a total of 85, the largest in history.

The others chosen by the Pope were two Italians, a Frenchman and a Dutch prelate.

The Negro to be elevated is Bishop Laurian Rugambwa of Rutaba, Tanganyika, in East Africa. The Japanese is Archbishop Peter Tatsuo Doi of Tokyo, Archbishop Rufino J. Santos of Manila is the Filipino.

The others honored by the Pontiff are Archbishop Bernard Jan Alfrink of Utrecht, Holland; Archbishop Joseph Lefebvre of Bourges, France, and the Most Rev. Luigi Traglia and the Most Rev. Antonio Bacci, both Italian members of the Vatican Curia.

They will be elevated to the purple at a pre-Easter consistory to be held on March 28.

It will be the third such consistory Pope John has called since he became supreme ruler of the church 16 months ago. Each time he has enlarged the college, underlining his determination to bolster the high senility of the church to meet modern problems and to reflect the great growth of the church in recent years.

Previously the College of Cardinals had been limited to 70 members for more than 350 years.

In making his latest cardinal selections, Pope John continued a practice he set earlier of elevating comparatively younger church officials to the college.

Bishop Rugambwa is 47, and Archbishop Santos is 51. Archbishop Alfrink is 59. Archbishops Doi and Lefebvre both 67, and the Most Revs. Traglia and Bacci both 64.

The college now has 31 Italians and 47 prelates from other countries. After the new consistory it will have 33 Italians and 52 non-Italians.

Naming of a cardinal for the Philippines, whose population is almost solidly Catholic, and of the first native Negro cardinal in Africa, where the church has expanded enormously in recent years, did not come as a surprise.

But the naming of a Japanese cardinal was a surprise and injected new interest in the colorful ceremonies that will see the elevation of the princes of the church. Japan's Catholic population is small, and Tokyo, of which the new cardinal is archbishop, has only about 37,000 Catholics.

The nomination of a Japanese cardinal was considered by Vatican sources to indicate the importance that Pope John attaches to the church in the Far East.
